Hays in coma after pill overdose; vital signs stable

Rep. Wayne Hays

BARNESVILLE, Ohio (UPI) — Rep. Wayne L. Hays, the subject of grand jury and House investigations for allegedly giving his mistress a no-work federal job, was hospitalized in a coma Thursday from an apparent overdose of sleeping pills.

Hays, 65, was rushed to Barnesville Hospital by ambulance from his district home in Flushing 18 miles north of here at midday, and was still unconscious Thursday evening in guarded condition.

Shortly before midnight Hays' doctor said the Congressman had "markedly improved within the hour," and disclosed that a team of toxicologists from the University of Pittsburgh was on its way to this small Southeastern Ohio community about 90 miles southwest of Pittsburgh.

His doctor called Hays' condition a "reaction" to sleeping medication and said he believed it was an "accidental" overdose caused by weakness.

"He has been in an extremely weakened condition the past three days due to lack of food intake," Dr. Richard Phillips said. "He remains in a coma, but his vital signs remain stable. His condition is considered guarded at the present time. His wife is at his side."

Hays' press secretary in Washington, Carol Clawson, said it was unclear whether Hays took an overdose of the medication, a tranquilizer or sleeping aid called Dalmane, by accident or intention.

"THERE WAS NO suicide note," she said.

Mrs. Clawson said Hays was found unconscious by his wife of two months, the former Pat Peak, in the morning and was admitted to the hospital at 11:45 a.m.

"Apparently he took them last night," Mrs. Clawson said.

"He has been in a gnerally weakened condition over the past five or six days. He has had diverticulitis. His stomach has been bothering him. He has not been eating much. He has lost 10 pounds. So what we do not know is how under normal conditions, what this would have done."

A SPOKESMAN for House Speaker Carl Albert said he would have no comment, but the spokesman noted that Albert had publicly observed several days ago that Hays appeared deeply depressed.

Thursday afternoon the House voted 400 to 0 to speed an Ethics Committee investigation of charges Hays placed Elizabeth Ray, 33, on the congressional payroll solely to be his mistress.

A federal grand jury has been taking evidence gathered by the FBI and the Justice Dept. about the allegations, and there were published reports Thursday that the probe would be broadened to include allegations Hays spent federal money to buy personal items on overseas trips.

Wednesday, a book by Miss Ray, "The Washington Fringe Benefit," was rushed to publication and was virtually an instant sell-out in Washington.

In recent days the scandal has forced Hays to step down as chairman of the House Democratic Campaign Committee, dispenser of election campaign funds, and he was reported prepared to relinquish his greatest power base, the chairmanship of the House Administration Committee, next week.

Vandalism code seen as curb on juvenile crime

by LINDA PUNCH

A proposed law which will hold parents liable for acts of vandalism by their children could "work as a deterrent to juvenile vandalism," Wheeling Village Atty. John Burke said Thursday.

The law — drafted by Northbrook Village Atty. Julian C. D'Esposito — has been suggested as a model ordinance for the Northwest suburbs. It sets fines of up to $500 and parents will have to pay any fine or restitution the court might assign.

"If people realize they are liable for a fine, they'll be more aware of where their child is at night," D'Esposito said. "Right now, I don't think most people feel they are responsible."

BURKE SAID THE law will be more effective if all the suburbs "get together and enforce it." He said, however, that there may be constitutional problems with the law since there "have been no court tests of this type of ordinance yet."

"It's difficult to hold one individual responsible for another when he breaks the law. It's not allowed under criminal law so it may not sit too well under civil law," he said.

Suburban officials are reviewing the proposed ordinance which "decriminalizes" vandalism — declaring the problem punishable by fines under local law. Such an ordinance will make vandalism an offense treated like a traffic violation.

Police have said that decriminalization would allow swifter prosecution of vandals. Police officials attending a hearing on the proposed ordinance said they support the law, but saw loopholes in the ordinance.

THE ORDINANCE will allow courts to free convicted vandals with only minimal supervision and it has no guarantee of fines, mandatory work or counseling or restitution to victms of vandalism, police said.

Vandals are now prosecuted under state criminal law, which police have criticized because they said it allows convicted vandals to go free and unpunished on court supervision.

The proposed law sets fines of up to $500 and "conditional discharges" of up to one year. Discharges may require the vandal to pay a fine, work, pursue a course of study or vocational training, or undergo medical and psychiatric reatment.

High water use draws concern of area officials

by WANDALYN RICE

The sudden appearance of summer weather has pushed Northwest suburban water use up near record levels, causing a sprinkling ban in part of one village and concern by one official that a genuine water crisis may not be far off.

Gene Wilroth, Arlington Heights public works director, said "It looks like the time has arrived to push the panic button" because of the high water use.

Water use in Arlington Heights is nearing the peak reached much later last summer, and Rolling Meadows already has exceeded its peak, Wilroth said. Water tables in the area are dropping rapidly, he said.

TUESDAY, ARLINGTON Heights pumped 13.3 million gallons of water, compared to an average June day of 4 million gallons pumped, village officials said. Last year's peak was 14.3 million gallons on July 31.

In Hanover Park, Wilroth said, the water level in one deep well has dropped 34 feet since mid-May, caused by the increasing volume of pumping.

The high water-use levels, Wilroth said, are particularly unusual for this time of year. He said the situation later this summer will depend on whether hot, dry weather persists.

"This could be a temporary thing, but it might not be. I hope we don't have to wait for a crisis to do something," he said.

WILROTH RECOMMENDED that village and city officials start major enforcement efforts on sprinkling ordinances, most of which limit sprinkling only on certain days of the week

Village to keep at fire disannex fight

Wheeling village officials Thursday said they will continue their fight to disannex from the Wheeling Rural Fire District.

Trustee William Hein said he "most definitely would like to see" the village board continue disannexation attempts.

"I wouldn't like to see us go into litigation unless its the only avenue we have left to pursue. We'll have to talk to the village attorney to see what avenues we have," he said.

Fire district trustees Wednesday denied Wheeling's request to disannex from the district. Officials said the disannexation would severely cut revenues to the district, and the money left would not be sufficient to provide an adequate level of fire service.

Trustee Gilbert Monoson said he feels the board should continue to "push for disannexation."

See related story, Page 5

"THEY'RE HOLDING us for ransom. The trustees say they know they're being inequitable, they know it's not proper, but they can't let us go because of the money," he said.

Monoson said the fire district board is "perpetuating Wheeling in the Santa Claus role" of the district.

"I'd like to see a court test on our desire to disannex. I think it's beyond the point of negotiations," he said.

Monoson also questioned the accountability of the fire district trustees, noting they are appointed by the Cook County Board.

"Their accountability is absolutely zero. There's nothing our village can do to remove them. The whole idea of a fire district is antiquated," he said.

VILLAGE ATTY. John Burke said a 1965 court case to prevent Wheeling from disannexing never was tried.

"From what I understand, it was settled with a handshake agreement that Wheeling could disconnect in the next few years," he said.

Burke said the fact the case never was tried improves the village's chances to get court approval for disannexation.

Village Pres. Ted C. Scanlon said he will wait for the results of a meeting between fire district trustees and officials of Wheeling, Buffalo Grove and Prospect Heights. The officials will discuss the eventual dissolution of the district and the formation of municipal departments.

"I think we'll see what comes out of that meeting and take it from there," he said.

BUFFALO GROVE Fire Chief Wayne Winter said he is pleased fire district trustees will be discussing the transition to municipal departments.

"I've always been a firm believer in a study of the district's needs. It has changed significantly over the years and we need more information before we can say what's really going on," he said.

Winter said "all indications that I have point to a municipal department in Buffalo Grove in two to three years."

The fire district serves about 50,000 residents in the Wheeling, Buffalo Grove and Prospect Heights area.

Rain, repairs to hamper travellers

Widely scattered rain storms and lane restrictions on the Tri-State Tollway will be the major obstacles to motorists leaving the area this weekend.

While high temperatures are expected, scattered showers are predicted for Saturday and Sunday throughout the Midwest according to the National Weather Service.

As for the roads, The Illinois Tollway Authority says traffic will be reduced to one lane in each direction on the Tri-State between Ill. Rte. 176 and Stearn School Rd., about 35 miles north of Chicago.

A similar situation exists on the Tri-State between Willow Road and the Deerfield Plaza, where motorists should also watch out for lane restrictions.

IF THE GREAT America theme park in Gurnee or Wisconsin are your destination, a good way to avoid possible bottlenecks on the Tri-State would be to drive north on Milwaukee Avenue through Libertyville to U.S. 41 in Gurnee.

Motorists can enter the park off Rte. 41, or if planning to drive into Wisconsin continue north a few miles where the highway joins the Tri-State just south of the state line.

Other repair sites on Illinois Tollways will be opened for weekend travel.

State police are still advising travelers to avoid the Stevenson Expressway, and use alternate routes. Frequent traffic jams have occurred between Chicago and Joliet on the expressway because of major repairs.

Elsewhere in the state, I-58 is closed for repairs from Manteno south to the Ford-Champaign County line, and I-80 has lane restrictions from Ottawa to LaSalle, also because of roadwork.

Palatine mayor won't run again?

Palatine Village Pres. Wendell E. Jones will not seek reelection to a second term next April, sources close to Jones have told The Herald. Jones, who has served on the village board for six years as a trustee and three years as village president, said Thursday he has not made a decision but "I'm leaning in one direction." Sources close to Jones have said the village president has reached a decision not to seek reelection because of family commitments. Jones said Thursday he has been considering a decision not to run, adding he has not made up his mind despite speculation he has. "I have mentioned to a few people that I may retire, but I don't want it to be premature," he said.

3 realty brokers lose licenses

The licenses of three Palatine real estate agents have been revoked by the Illinois Real Estate Examining Committee. John and Loretta Olson, and Clifford Kortas said Thursday they will file for a rehearing of the case in Cook County Circuit Court. An appeal they filed last month with the committee to reconsider a recommendation to revoke their licenses was denied. The three were charged with deception in connection with land-trade deals in which nearly 100 Chicago area customers traded their Illinois property for a down payment on property in Wisconsin. The three agents worked for the Olsons' company, Vacation Sites Inc., Hoffman Estates. A lawyer for the three agents said the circuit court judge will determine if there is a legal basis for scheduling a hearing. The court could either return the case to the examining committee, or reverse the committee's decision to revoke the licenses.

Movie theater owner fined $1,000

One of the owners of the Rte. 53 Outdoor Theatre in Palatine Township was fined $1,000 Thursday after pleading guilty in Cook County Circuit Court to charges of refusing to follow a court order to stop showing sexually explicit films at the drive-in theater. The state's attorney's office had sought fines of $65,000 and prison terms against Jeffrey Kohlberg and his father, Stanford, president of the company.

Unless Pikarsky resigns

RTA budget showdown expected

by LYNN ASINOF

The four suburban directors of the Regional Transportation Authority Thursday said they are prepared to face a mass transportation crisis in early July to force the resignation of Chairman Milton Pikarsky.

In releasing a new series of charges against Pikarsky, the four said they plan to make good their threat to block passage of the budget for the fiscal year beginning July 1 unless Pikarsky resigns.

"On June 30, I'll tell you, we're not going to adopt a budget," said board member D. Daniel Baldino of Evanston. Without a budget he said "there will be a crisis."

"THE PEOPLE WILL probably suffer for a short time," Baldino said, claiming that would be better than allowing the RTA to continue under Pikarsky's leadership.

The four suburban directors said they expect a showdown and are willing to keep the six-county agency operating on a week-to-week basis. Other suburban board members are Jerry D. Boose of St. Charles, Richard Newland of Waukegan and Gene Leonard of Oak Forest.

In a 20-page report, the suburban directors outlined specific incidents in which they say the chairman lied, withheld information from the board and made decisions without board approval.

The suburban directors said the "bill of particulars" was prepared to substantiate charges made in April when they first called for Pikarsky's ouster. Baldino said the most damaging criticism in the document deals with Pikarsky's administrative failures. These include:

- Failure to establish formal hiring policies, work rules and pay plan.
- Failure to fill important managerial posts, including personnel, finance, law and audit, while less important positions were filled.
- Improper use of consultants, resulting in one firm being paid $330,000 in fees for an 11 month period without board approval.

Baldino said Pikarsky was guilty of running the RTA by developing "the cult of personality" similar to that used by Stalin.

"BUT MILTON isn't quite as capable as Stalin was of putting together a monolithic structure," Baldino said.

The "bill of particulars" accuses Pikarsky of shortchanging the suburbs by making unfulfilled promises of new and expanded service, hamstringing negotiations for the purchase of service agreements with commuter railroads and failing to include the suburbs in federal grant applications.

THE SUBURBAN directors said Pikarsky has created an atmosphere of distrust on the board by telling key staff members not to discuss agency business with board members, failing to reply to correspondence and opposing establishment of board committees.

Newland said Pikarsky also threatened to put his own men in key suburban posts unless the suburban members "go along with him."

Pikarsky maintains the charges against him are politically motivated. He has called a press conference this morning to discuss the charges.

C&NW pact deadline won't be met by RTA

The Regional Transportation Authority will miss its June 30 deadline for completion of a purchase of service contract with the Chicago & North Western Ry., suburban RTA directors said Thursday.

Richard D. Newland, board member from Waukegan, said the last negotiating session with North Western officials was a month ago.

"Since that time, to the best of my knowledge, there have been no negotiations with the North Western," Newland said. "I don't know how you can negotiate with yourself."

THE RTA SET the June 30 deadline this spring when it approved a three-month $900,000 interim grant as a show of good faith.

Negotiations for the purchase of service agreement have been stalled by the North Western's demand that the RTA purchase its rolling stock for as much as $58 million.

Other commuter railroads have turned their equipment over to the RTA in exchange for subsidies to cover their deficits. Newland said the North Western, however, is a money maker, and therefore has no reason to give away its equipment.

"They have good rolling stock," Newland said, noting it has another 15 years life expectancy and would cost a great deal more to replace.

D. DANIEL BALDINO, board member from Evanston, said RTA Chairman Milton Pikarsky and other Chicago RTA directors are unwilling to purchase the rolling stock because of a "20-year dislike" between Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley and the North Western.

"The basic problems with the North Western are serious and I'm not saying if I were alone in a room with (railroad president) Larry Provo I would work them out," Baldino said. "But I'd come a lot closer than Milton Pikarsky."

Baldino said pressure from city hall on the Chicago board members becomes most obvious when the North Western is being discussed. He also charged that the chairman participated in only two negotiating sessions, even though he was supposed to be heading the negotiating team.

Guns fall silent on Lebanon warfronts

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Guns fell silent on Lebanon's four warfronts Thursday but all sides insisted there was no cease-fire. Rightist Christian President Suleiman Franjieh vowed to fight any Arab peacekeeping force with "all our means and resources."

While Arab League officials met in Cairo to begin assembling a joint Arab force of 4,500 men to police a Lebanese cease-fire, Franjieh cabled Mahmoud Riad, the 20-member League general secretary, that its resolutions calling for the force "are not valid and not binding."

"Lebanon will resist with all its means and resources any Arab force that enters its territory against its will and without its prior agreement," said Franjieh, the lame duck president who has refused to resign and allow his parliament-elected successor Elias Sarkis take office.

On the country's four warfronts, fighting between leftist and Palestinian guerrillas and the Syrian army subsided as a "de facto truce" took effect.

"Not a shot has been fired in anger all day," one Palestinian officer commanding an outpost near Beirut airport said. "But there's no word of any actual cease-fire agreement."

Leftist gunmen in Bhamdoun patrol highway leading to Beirut

Palestinian, leftist and independent sources all said the key issue holding up a formal cease-fire was the issue of a Syrian withdrawal.

Palestinian and leftist leaders -- guerrilla leader Yassir Arafat and leftist leader Kamal Jumblatt—have demanded a total Syrian withdrawal within one week, which the Syrian President Hafez Assad has refused, the sources said.

Syria agreed to accept a truce arranged through Libyan, Algerian and Arab League mediation. But Syria accepted the Arab League's plan for a multination peacekeeping force because it allowed Damascus to keep some troops in Lebanon and thus not lose face in what some observers are calling "Syria's Vietnam."

But truce talks between Moslem leftist and Palestinian leaders and Libyan Premier Maj. Abdel Salam Jalloud erupted into angry arguments over whether the more than 12,000 Syrian troops in Lebanon should be forced to leave.

In the end Jalloud, who had initially proposed a cease-fire leaving the Syrian army in its advanced positions, reversed his stand and called for a total Syrian withdrawal.

"We do not agree with the Syrian military intervention," the Libyan said. "This should stop and the Syrians should pull back immediately."

Syrian tanks and troops remained halted in their tracks on three fronts by the combination of stubborn leftist-Palestinian resistance and diplomatic pressure from other Arab states.

Clashes in the rugged central mountains 12 miles east of the capital, around the ancient southern port of Sidon and on the outskirts of northern Tripoli died down after a day of deadly artillery duels between Syrian and leftist gunners.

In Beirut, rightist and leftist heavy guns thundered overnight in what local newspapers were now calling the "traditional war" — the 14-month battle between Lebanese Moslems and Christians — adding to the 24-hour toll of more than 220 dead and 550 wounded before the guns fell still.

In Washington, the Senate urged President Ford Thursday to declare the willingness of the United States to take part in a multilateral assistance program for the reconstruction of war-torn Lebanon.

A Senate resolution, adopted without dissent, also declared that Congress welcomed Ford's request for funds for the relief and rehabilitation of victims of the war and urged U.N. Secretary Kurt Waldheim to renew his appeal for a ceasefire and use his office to achieve it.

In Tel Aviv, Israel said it could accept a "Symbolic" joint Arab peacekeeping force in Lebanon as outlined by the Arab League provided it did not threaten Israel's security.

Government sources said Israel made a new study of the situation in Lebanon following the Arab League's call for a five nation Arab military force to enforce a cease-fire between warring Lebanese factions.

Asked whether Israel would consider taking military action in Lebanon if the Arab League sent in a joint peace force, one source said, "it would depend very much on how much, to what extent, it is symbolic."

The sources said Israel would base its policy toward Lebanon on considerations of national security, intervening only if it feels threatened.

The sources accused Israeli newspapers of "overdramatizing" the situation by saying authorities are rethinking the Jewish state's policy toward Lebanon in view of the Arab League decision.

"There is no change in our position," one source said.

Tax reform amendments announced

Liberal senators preparing for a floor fight over tax reform next week, announced Thursday a package of amendments designed to take a bigger tax bite from exporters, multinational companies and the well-to-do. Included are a strengthening of the minimum tax, deletion of a proposed maximum tax, deletion of a proposed maximum tax of 50 per cent on unearned income, an end to tax deferral on foreign income, stronger curbs on tax shelters except in residential real estate, a reduction in the foreign tax credit for oil and a reduction in export subsidies.

Antitrust bill approved by Senate

The Senate Thursday passed a sweeping antitrust bill after leaders hammered out a compromise agreement on the hotly debated measure which has tied up the Senate for over a week of bitter debate. The measure was passed 65 to 19 after Democrats and Republicans agreed to a final disposition of the controversial proposal. The bill, which goes to the House, is aimed at giving the Justice Department broader authority to investigate and prosecute anti-trust violations and to give the state's new power to seek treble damages for price-fixing schemes.

Court rules on public employment firings

A narrowly divided Supreme Court ruled Thursday that public employes have no constitutional right to a hearing before they are fired. The 5-4 decision said that unless a contract or law provides for a hearing, public employment is not the sort of "property" interest protected from arbitrary loss under the due process clause of the Consitution. The decision presumably will further encourage public employes to join labor unions and obtain collective bargaining rights to hearings, since they cannot rely on constitutional protection.

Engineers to probe Teton Dam disaster

A six-man panel of engineers will investigate the Teton Dam disaster, the Interior Department announced Thursday after disclosure of a two-year-old report that two "unusually large" cracks were found in a dam abutment during its construction. The Labor Department also announced it was earmarking $750,000 to help hundreds of workers left jobless by last Saturday's dam collapse. The report on potential trouble with the huge earthfilled dam was filed with the Bureau of Reclamation in February 1974 by project engineer Robert Robison. He said excavation of a channel across the canyon bottom had "disclosed two unusually large fissures" extending into the canyon walls.

Cubans not leaving Angola: Rumsfeld

Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld told America's NATO allies Thursday that despite earlier reports, there is no sign that Cuban troops have begun to leave Angola. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger announced last month after talks in Stockholm that Cuban Premier Fidel Castro had written Swedish Premier Olof Palme promising to start withdrawing troops at a rate of 200 per month. But Rumsfeld told the opening session of the spring meeting of NATO defense ministers there was no concrete evidence yet of any significant Cuban withdrawals. Five other ministers, citing their own intelligence reports, concurred in Rumsfeld's assessment.

Karen Quinlan's respirator off treatment list

MORRISTOWN, N.J. (UPI) — Doctors and a nursing home ethics committee agreed Thursday Karen Ann Quinlan has no reasonable possibility of recovering and they would not administer extraordinary care if the comatose patient's condition worsens.

A spokesman for the newly formed ethics committee said Karen's parents, Julia and Joseph Quinlan, met for several hours with the committee and all unanimously agreed they would maintain "normal levels" of treatment but would not reconnect her with a respirator.

"All parties concerned agree that normal levels of nutrition and antibiotics will be given," said Donald L. Berlin, attorney for Morris View Nursing Home in nearby Morris Township and one of seven members on the ethics committee.

Berlin said the nursing home would not reconnect Miss Quinlan to the respirator and there is no heart pacemaker equipment at the nursing home.

He said Miss Quinlan would be given only "normal amounts of antibiotics" if infection develops.

Berlin said the nursing home would follow the guidelines established by the New Jersey Supreme Court when it ruled on March 31 the Quinlans had the right to remove all extraordinary life support mechanisms.

At a brief news conference, the Quinlans said they were "extremely happy" with the ethics committee's decision.

ACTRESS-SINGER Claudine Longet and her attorney, Charles Weedman walk to courthouse in Aspen, Colo. for hearing on manslaughter charges in connection with the shooting death of "Spider" Sabich. Miss Longet pleaded innocent. Judge George Lohr ruled "probable cause to believe the defendant committed the crime as charged," and set trial.

Hint India's A-bomb used U.S. fuel

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Senate report said Thursday there is "strong and disturbing" evidence the United States furnished some of the materials India used to make its first nuclear bomb.

"The United States exported an essential nuclear material to India for use in its unsafeguarded research reactor, and then failed to establish whether India used the material in producing the plutonium for its nuclear explosion in 1974," said a report released by Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., as chairman of the Senate Government Operations Committee.

"Despite public assurances by U.S. officials at the time that no U.S.-supplied material was involved, there are now strong and disturbing indications that India used our heavy water in its nuclear explosion program."

Ribicoff said India's use of byproducts of the nuclear reactor to make a bomb was the first such conversion in history.

"India thus became the sixth member of the nuclear weapons club because there is no technical difference between a so-called peaceful nuclear explosion and an atomic bomb," Ribicoff said.

He said the State Department confirmed the U.S. sold India 21 tons of deuterium, the essential ingredient in converting uranium into plutonium, which is atom bomb material.

Revenue sharing battle in House

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An intense parliamentary struggle developed in the House Thursday over extension of federal revenue sharing to 38,000 state, county and local governments.

The present revenue sharing program expires at year's end. Under it, state and local governments received $30 billion in federal funds since 1972 to use largely as they see fit.

A bill before the House would extend the program through Sept. 30, 1980, at $6.65 billion per year, at a total of $25 billion.

Complex parliamentary maneuvering developed w th substitute bills and amendments offered on top of amendments.

The central issues were:

- How strong the bill's civil rights protections should be. One version would suspend funds to communities which discriminate by race, national origin, sex, age, religion or handicap status in any program unless the community could prove no revenue sharing funds were involved. Opponents charged this would turn revenue sharing into a civil rights program.
- Whether to include a provision urging states to make plans to "modernize" local governments, which some interpret as an effort to encourage metropolitan forms of government.
- Whether to require union wages to be paid on construction projects using any revenue sharing funds. Opponents charged this would prevent some communities from starting any projects.
- Whether to allocate $150 million a year according to formula favoring big cities and poor rural areas. Opponents said 37,000 communities across the nation would lose, while 2,584 would gain.
- Whether to plege the $25 billion all at once or subject it to the annual appropriations process. Rep. Brock Adams, D-Wash., chairman of the House Budget Committee, said revenue sharing is "the biggest and the worst of the backdoor spending" programs and Congress cannot control the budget unless it brings it under periodic review.

In the background was a controversy over whether to extend revenue sharing at all. Supporters argue local governments will spend federal tax money more wisely than Washington so it makes sense to turn some of it over to them.

They said revenue sharing is the "most efficient" of all federal programs, operated by only 100 persons.

Opponents say the federal government, with a $76 billion deficit this year, has no revenue to share and should use its funds for specific federal programs.

Shirley Black to get protocol post

- President Ford announced Thursday he will appoint Shirley Temple Black as U.S. chief of protocol with the rank of ambassador. The 48-year-old Mrs. Black will be the first woman to hold the protocol post from which she will direct such pomp-and-circumstance occasions as the wining and dining of visiting foreign leaders by the President and secretary of state. Mrs. Black has been ambassador to Ghana since September of 1974.

- President Ford will mark America's 200th birthday with five days of Fourth of July celebrations ranging from visits to Valley Forge and Independence Hall to the monitoring of a spaceship landing on Mars, the White House announced.

- A federal judge in New York Thursday barred the press and public at a civil trial in which singer Connie Francis is suing the Howard Johnson's motel chain for $5 million, charging it was responsible for her rape in 1974 and her subsequent unhappy sex life. Miss Francis argued the chain was negligent in allowing the attack to occur.

- Winfield Kinsey, who has been blind for 50 years saw his wife and two young daughters for the first time this week. Blinded in a farm accident when he was 12, Kinsey underwent a cornea transplant operation in Baltimore. "It's just unbelievable," he said. "I can see the trees are green. I can see the different color flowers. I can see the grass is green . . . my one little girl has light hair, the other, dark hair."

- The stepdaughter of actress Deborah Kerr, jailed on drug charges on Bogata, Colombia, was transferred from a special interrogation cell to the women's jail. Christine Viertel Schneidman was arrested June 1 at Bogata's Eldorado international airport.

- Lawrence Wood "Chip" Robert, the former undersecretary of the Treasury in the Franklin D. Roosevelt administration, died Wednesday at Emory Hospital in Atlanta.

- Tim Kneale, a 13-year-old heavy reader from Nedrow, N.Y., took the words "Yarborough" and "Narcolepsy" in stride Thursday to win the 40th National Spelling Bee and its $1,000 top prize. Rachel Wachtel, 13 of Wooster, Ohio placed second. Third place went to William Mulher of Marysville, Kan.

Carter on vacation; Dems eye platform

by United Press International

Jimmy Carter took his first vacation in almost a year and a half of nonstop campaigning Thursday, and other Democrats — with one notable exception — were queing up to praise him.

With Carter all but ordained as the Democratic presidential nominee, attention in the party turned toward the platform he will run on.

Members of the party's platform writing subcommittee began gathering in Washington for three days of closed drafting sessions followed next week by three days of public sessions. Reagan targeted Missouri as the next

Both President Ford and Ronald Reagan targeted Missouri as the next battleground in their fight for the GOP nomination. Both are traveling Friday to Springfield, Mo., for the state Republican convention, which will choose 19 delegates.

Ford led Reagan in delegates, 918 to 861, with 199 uncommitted.

The Democratic delegate figures showed Carter with at least 1,260 delegates of the 1,505 needed for nomination. But that figure included neither the 248 pledged to Henry Jackson nor many of those pledged to George Wallace who have not stated their preference. Morris Udall has 333 and Edmund G. Brown Jr. has 246.

A Democratic National Committee projection released Wednesday said Carter had 1,514 delegates.

Wallace and Chicago Mayor Richard Daley endorsed Carter Wednesday and Jackson made clear he would do so next week.

Carter picked up more support Thursday, with Philadelphia Mayor Frank Rizzo, a former Jackson supporter, endorsing him and delivering between 15 and 27 delegates.

Then Sen. Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia, a favorite son candidate who won his state's primary, released his 31 delegates but without a specific endorsement.

Pennsylvania Gov. Milton Shapp released his 19 delegates to Carter and urged all 178 Pennsylvania delegates to vote for Carter.

Also endorsing the former governor of Georgia were Mississippi senators James Eastland and John Stennis, Kentucky senators Wendell Ford and Walter Huddleston, and District of Columbia Mayor Walter Washington.

Carter was at his Plains, Ga. headquarters where aids said, "He's going to spend time here with his family and friends" and then go to the seashore for a week's vacation.

Not joining in the plaudits for Carter was Brown, who won 204 delegates in the California primary Tuesday and support from some of New Jersey's 83 uncommitted. The California governor won the support of 19 uncommitted Louisiana delegates.

Swine flu shot program rapped

A Rolling Meadows doctor has criticized plans by the Cook County Dept. of Public Health for massive swine flu immunization in the suburbs.

Dr. Douglas Finlayson said the health department's plan to recruit 200 lay and 40 professional volunteers for each of 20 clinics in the Northwest suburbs "is far from a reality" and nothing more than a publicity grab.

He also expressed doubts at having no physicians involved in the program and criticized the department for not working closely with physicians in the area.

"Basically, they don't know what they're doing," Finlayson said. "They're not organized. We're dealing here with people from the Cook County health department who are basically inefficient."

FINLAYSON CRITICIZED the health department for not planning to use physicians to immunize residents, but rather for planning to use other people who he says are not qualified to give the shots.

Dr. Douglas Finlayson

"They're going to drive up in vans and give shots," Finlayson said, adding that he feels there will be problems with the number of residents involved.

Plans call for immunization of up to 10,000 people per day during a 5-day period in September.

"THEY'RE TRYING to put their names in the papers and to take the credit for the flu shots," said Finlayson.

Dr. Collette Rasmussen, chief of preventive medicine for the country, discounted Finlayson's concerns and laughed off the publicity-seeking charge.

"The 200 lay volunteers will be for crowd control," she said, "and the 40 professionals will give the shots." The professionals will include dentists, drugists, paramedics and nurses, she said.

"And physicians, if they want to volunteer," she added. "The 200 (lay people) will be controling the crowd, providing information, manning the exits, and they will be line monitors (outside, keeping sidewalks passable)."

Dr. Rasmussen said villages and cities — not the health department — will be recruiting the volunteers, and if the villages want doctors involved in the massive immunization, it will be up to them to obtain the volunteers. She expects at last one physician to be present at each clinic, however.

"ALL WE'RE DOING is organizing this," Dr. Rasmussen said. "We will be providing training in three areas: one is for clinic managers, one is for volunteer leaders and one is for using the gun."

No syringes, but rather a jet gun, which injects the vaccine without actually penetrating the skin, will be used in the program.

Finlayson also raised the question of liability in case some problem develops and someone decides to sue.

"Wo whould be liable?" he asks.

Dr. Rasmussen discounted liability as a concern.

"YOU CAN SUE anybody," she said. "You can sue the manufacturer of the gun, the county, the state, the village. The sites will be public sites and will be covered by the village's own liability insurance. Doctors are covered by their malpractice insurance."

She said doctors are not being provided the vaccine for use in their offices because it is coming in 50-dose vials designed to fit directly into the gun.

"If there is any left over, they can get some then," she said.

In responding to the publicity charge, Dr. Rasmussen said, "we are getting paid by the citizens of suburban Cook County to have certain aspects of health provided, including immunization, and we are helping the towns sponsor those clinics."

Dr. Rasmussen said health department personnel will not staff the clinics, but will staff a central office which will handle any problems. She said there will be 240 clinics countywide and the health department does not have the personnel to staff them, so volunteers will run the clinics.

Summer not necessarily dead end for learning

by DIANE GRANAT

"No more pencils, no more books, no more teachers dirty looks."

No more learning, either?

When summer vacation starts next week, it may be the end of any structured learning for children until September. But it is also the chance for parents to join their children in informal learning experiences.

Few summer classes are planned in the Northwest suburbs this year, but local educators urge parents not to worry.

"Kids need to relax, to get a vacation — you can learn an awful lot on a baseball field," said Carl Seltzer, assistant superintendent for curriculum in Shcaumburg Township Dist. 54, and his feelings were echoed by administrators in other school districts.

FOR CHILDREN who need remedial work in reading and match, however, the lack of summer classes may be a setback.

One thing parents might do to keep an eye on their child's progress is to get a summer "prescription" from his regular teacher.

Some teachers may be willing to identify a child's needs and outline a program of study for parents to use in working with their children in certain subjects, said Kenneth Gill, superintendent in Wheeling-Buffalo Grove Dist. 21. Some school districts also may lend books to parents to use in summer instruction.

If parents want to try new ways to teach their children, they might visit one of the teacher centers in the area, which offer a wide range of educational materials.

THE TEACHER Center, 415 Greenbay Rd., Wilmette, is a workshop where parents can make educational games and activities for their children. The center also sells workbooks that parents can use to keep up their children's basic skills through the summer.

Two retail stores nearby — The Apple Corps, 4932 W. Dempster, Skokie, and Teachers Media Mart, 141 W. River Rd., Elgin — offer games, workbooks, children's books and educational toys that might be useful.

For the child who has specific problems that need special help for which there is no appropriate summer class, tutors may be the answer, said Suzanne Jacobs, director of the Arlington Heights Dist. 25 teachers center.

Several local school districts have names of teachers who are willing to tutor children during the summer. This year, because so many summer classes have been canceled, there will probably be quite a few teachers available for this kind of work.

BUT INTENSIVE tutoring is not a general solution to the lack of summer schools, said James Montgomery, director of instruction Dist. 25. Tutoring on a one-to-one basis may be good for specific problems, but it should not be used for children who are just bored, Montgomery said.

A reading clinic is opening in Mount Prospect this summer to help children in first through eighth grades . The Liette-Bertellotti Reading Center, 300 W. Golf Rd., will open June 21 for children who need to improve their reading skills.

An obvious place to turn to for summer reading is the public library. Most local libraries hold summer reading clubs for children, as well as story hours, workshops and children's films.

Summer is one of the best chances to enrich children through new and unusual experiences. Many educators recommend that parents take their children on trips to museums, zoos and plays, and share learning experiences with their youngsters.

Summer jobs offered to needy

Low-income youths between 14 and 21 may apply for 1,975 summer jobs available through the Community and Economic Development Assn. of Cook County.

The jobs are with nonprofit public and private agencies. They are for 20 hours a week and pay $2.30 an hour. Income requirements are based on federal guidelines, with a family of four becoming eligible with an income of $5,500.

or in various parts of communities.

"We're going to have to really enforce it (sprinkling rules) with fines, because we've been giving notices to people for years and it hasn't done any good," Wilroth said.

In Palatine, Village Mgr. Anton Harwig Thursday announced a total ban on use of water outside houses in one area of the village because of low water pressure.

The ban, in effect in Palatine east of Rohlwing Avenue, including the Winston Park subdivision, means that residents of the area cannot water lawns, wash cars or otherwise use water outside.

OFFICIALS IN other communities said they have not implemented sprinkling bans, William Davis, general superintendent for Buffalo Grove, said the village has been pumping 2.5 million gallons of water a day for the past week, one million gallons more than normal for this time of year.

Disannex law 'inequities' probed

Wheeling officials are questioning why the Village of Arlington Heights is allowed to automatically withdraw newly annexed areas from the Wheeling Rural Fire Protection District while Wheeling is not.

Wheeling trustees Wednesday learned that Illinois law allows an area that has been annexed to a municipality with its own fire protection services to be automatically disconnected from the fire district. Arlington Heights has automatically disconnected one square mile of land from the district during the past few years.

Wheeling Trustee William Hein Thursday said, "I don't see why Arlington Heights can do it and Wheeling can't."

"I don't think any Wheeling officials knew about the law. We're finding out a lot of things. If Arlington Heights does it, why can't we?" he said.

VILLAGE PRES. Ted C. Scanlon said he thinks Wheeling has the legal right to automatically disannex land from the fire district, but "we evidently missed the boat by not doing it at the time we annexed land into the village."

Wheeling Trustee Charles Kerr said he feels it "is a hell of a lot easier for Arlington Heights" to automatically disconnect land "because of the make up" of the fire district board. Arlington Heights Village Pres. James Ryan serves as attorney for the fire district board.

Fire district officials have denied Wheeling's request to disannex, saying the withdrawal would severely cut revenues to the district.

Ryan said the disannexation requests of Arlington Heights and Wheeling are "mutually distinct situations."

"In most communities, there is a municipal fire department and municipal fire tax levy. Wheeling is in a unique situation," he said.

WHEELING HAS a municipal fire department, but does not currently levy a municipal fire tax. Fire tax revenues are collected by the fire district and returned to Wheeling on a contract basis. A small portion of the village is not in the fire district and pays no fire taxes.

"Wheeling theoretically could have taken advantage of the law, but they are absolutely unique because part of the community is in the fire district and part is not," Ryan said. "The only way the two situations could be similar is in fact Wheeling was a totally municipal fire department."

Ryan said the law was originally passed to "avoid double taxation" in areas annexed to a municipality. He noted that since Wheeling is already a part of the fire district, newly annexed areas still would pay the same fire tax.

The Illinois statute states that when territory in a fire district is annexed to a municipality that "was at the time of such annexation obligated by contract to furnish fire protection to the district . . . such annexed territory shall be disconnected from the district."

The law states that the court shall order disconnection after a copy of the annexation ordinance and the boundaries of the annered area are filed in Cook County Court. The fire district can file objections to the automatic disannexations.

'Fowl' plight befalls lady wanting to feed pigeons

by JOE FRANZ

Betty Gaile, the so-called "pigeon lady" of Des Plaines' south side, said she wishes city officials and her neighbors would leave her alone.

Mrs. Gaile, 1672 Lunt Ave., has drawn the wrath of several aldermen and her neighbors in recent months over her insistence on feeding wild pigeons in her backyard.

Those opposed to her actions contend the feeding draws large flocks of pigeons and other birds to the area, posing a health hazard and nuisance to neighboring residents.

CITY OFFICIALS have talked to her about cutting the ration of bird feed and have tried, without much success, to trap the birds. The city is considering a nuisance action against Mrs. Gaile and her husband, and this week voted to draft an ordinance that would limit the amount of bird feed that can be left outdoors.

Mrs. Gaile Thursday said the problems connected with the pigeons have been highly exaggerated and that she believes the city is harassing her and her husband.

"I just feel that they are picking on us, and picking on us and picking on us," she said. "I don't know why they don't leave us alone.

"With all the murdering and stealing and everying else that is going on today they have to pick on people who feed birds," Mrs. Gaile said.

City officials and neighbors contend that at certain times each day hundreds of birds can be found in Mrs. Gaile's backyard. They also contend the birds "baptize" homes in the area when flying to and from their feeding place.

MRS. GAILE, HOWEVER, says the numbers are not nearly that high and that the birds do not drop on neighboring homes.

"I look and I look and I look and they never go in his yard," she said as she pointed to her neighbor's property. "They stay in our yard until they eat and then go away.

"I don't know how the birds can drop on his house when they never go on his property," she said. "I'd also like to know what kind of disease the pigeons carry."

Mrs. Geile said she and her husband began feeding the pigeons many years ago, and that they spend about $2,000 a year for pigeon feed.

"WE FEEL SORRY for the pigeons, that's why we feed them," she said. "I feel sorry for all animals that are hungry and will do anything I can for them.

"We've lived here for 28 years and until now never had any trouble with our neighbors," Mrs. Gaile said. "It's a shame people are against feeding the birds. I don't know what they have against them."

Shirley Lundvick, 1665 Greenleaf Ave., said she has nothing against the pigeons personally, but believes they are messy and have created a neighborhood nuisance.

"I've heard the mayor and some others laugh about the problem, but I don't think it's funny," she said. "I'd like to see what they'd say if they looked out their window and saw those awful things.

"EVERY BIRD in an eight state area must know about this place," she said. "The word must have gotten around."

Mrs. Lundvick and another neighbors, Andy Kalata, of 1679 Greenleaf Ave., said despite the humane efforts by the city to solve the pigeon problem, they believe the only solution is to eliminate the birds.

"I think the problem will be solved by some destroying method," Kalata said.

Ald. Robert Kraves, 6th, advocates destroying the pigeons, but other city council members have hesitated to go that far.

Ozone alert for area lifted Thursday by EPA

by SCOTT HAMILTON

The yellow ozone alert for Chicago was lifted Thursday morning by the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency.

The alert, the first of the year for the Chicago area, was issued Monday by the EPA when atmospheric conditions prevented air pollutants from dissipating, creating hazardous conditions for persons with heart or respiratory ailments.

Suburbs in Northwestern Cook County were not affected by the alert.

Sy Levine, subunit supervisor for the EPA, said Illinois may expect to be placed on ozone alerts about half the time from May 1 to the end of September.

"(Safe) levels usually are exceeded once or twice a week," he said. "and we issue advisories for people to take it easy."

THERE ARE FOUR EPA advisories: a watch, the yellow and red alerts and an emergency situation.

With a watch alert, conditions exist in which an ozone problem could develop. Under a yellow alert, Levine said people with heart and respiratory problems should watch their activities and avoid unnecessary exercise or activity.

Under a red alert, Levine said the EPA calls industry and requests shutdown of certain equipment or curtailing of certain operations.

Levine said that there have been no emergency alerts issued, but that under one, "industry would have to practically come to a stop" and automotive traffic would have to be severely restricted.

OZONE IS FORMED when the energy from the sun interacts with hydrocarbon emissions from autos and industry and it can affect an area 150 to 200 miles away from its source, carried just as a weather front moves.

A study released last year by the Environmental Health Center, a division of the Institute for Environmental Quality, indicated that people affected by ozone, in addition to those with heart and lung problems, include the very young, the aged, people with allergies and even those who wear contact lenses.

Healthy people can be affected if they are exposed to the ozone for several hours.

Ozone affects the body tissues more than any other pollutant. It can cause ulceration of the membranes, irritate the eyes and prolonged exposure to a high concentration of ozone can destroy red blood cells.

Ozone usually forms following a prolonged period of extremely warm days.

Hint no cooling units at A-plants

An official of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency said Thursday the EPA has made a preliminary decison not to require Commonwealth Edison Co. to install thermal polluton control towers at its Waukegan and Zion plants.

Gary Milburn, an EPA acquatic biologist, said preliminary findings showed the plants were not significantly affecting Lake Michigan, which means the EPA will probably decide not to require Commonwealth Edison to install cooling towers at the two plants.

Under federal and state regulations, the utility was required to install three cooling towers by 1981 at the Zion nuclear power plant to lower the temperature of discharges into the lake.

The company also had been required to construct a "diffuser" which would send discharges into the lake far from shore to assure the discharge would be well mixed with lake water.

Milburn said the public can complain about the preliminary decision before it becomes final.

Businessman, 31, slain

Michael Curtin, 31, a businessman involved in mysterious moonlighting ventures, was found shot to death and left in the back seat of his late-model car in Maywood Wednesday night.

Curtin had two bullet wounds in the head and had been choked with a 4-foot nylon cord.

Police found a badge on the body identifying Curtin, of Morton Grove, as a legislative assistant to former state Sen. James P. Loukas, Chicago. Another emblem on the car's windshield identified him as an associate member of the Fraternal Order of Police.

Checks indicated he had done some work as a private investigator. Police found four spiral notebooks in the car which indicated he may have been involved in narcotics traffic.

Curtin earned about $300 a week as the office manager of the Ashland Oil Company's Ashland Chemical Division in Schiller Park, but he drove a Cadillac and apparently generated most of his income uring his off-hours activities, police said.

Maywood Police Chief Wilbert Samuel said Curtin was "an ambulance chaser" who apparently obtained clients for attorneys and, in return, "would make something off the top."

4 tell of phony vouchers

Four Material Service Corp. executives testified Thursday they turned in phony expense accounts to raise money the government says became part of a bribery fund for state legislators.

The four, granted immunity by federal prosecutors, were called by the defense, which is attempting to prove that cement industry executives — not the lawmakers on trial — are the real culprits in the bribery scheme.

The legislators are accused of taking $30,000 in bribes in return for passage of a bill allowing cement trucks to carry more weight on Illinois roads.

James Coghlan, attorney for Sen. Kenneth Course, D-Chicago, said his client did nothing wrong by accepting $5,000 from the trucking industry and then passing it out to 16 Democratic senators. Coghlan contends the $5,000 was a campaign contribution.

"The real crime," Coghlan told reporters outside the presence of the jury, "was committed by the cement companies which raised this fund and then deducted it as a business expense when it should have been reported as a non-deductible political expense."

'Industry should stay'

Democratic gubernatorial candidate Michael J. Howlett said Thursday night he will encourage Illinois businesses to expand their facilities in the state, instead of going elsewhere.

"Lately, Illinois has been losing industry to other states and countries. We must develop a positive program to overcome the competition," Howlett said in a speech prepared for delivery to the 401 Club, a group of executive managers of International Harvester Co.

5-year plate plan passes House

The Illinois House Thursday passed and sent to the Senate a bill which would switch Illinois to a five-year license plate system.

The bill (H3522) was sponsored by Rep. Robert Craig, D-Danville. It would take effect for the 1978 auto plate year.

The measure passed the House on a 135-9 roll call, despite the objection of some Republicans that a plan they sponsored would work more efficiently.

If the bill becomes law, auto owners would be issued a set of metal plates only once every five years. During the next four years, the state would sell stickers to be affixed to the plates, indicating up-to-date registration.

The change would not affect a motorist's right to keep his license number from one year to the next.

Fire destroys goat barn

Fire apparently set by arsonists destroyed an empty goat barn and damaged two others at the Illinois state fairgrounds Thursday.

No one was injured in the fires, which were first reported at 4:02 a.m.

Pat Ward, a Springfield public health and safety commissioner, said a propellant, probably gasoline, was used to start the blazes.

He said it was definitely a case of arson, but there were no immediate arrests.

Carter Natten, director of state fair buildings and grounds, estimated it will cost $50,000 to replace the damaged and destroyed property.

College budget passed

The second half of a proposed $835.5 million higher education budget for fiscal 1977 was passed by the Illinois House Appropriations Committee Thursday and sent to the House for consideration.

The four bills (S1623, S1626, S1646, S1650), totaling more than $450 million, were approved by the committee in virtually the same form in which they came from the Senate.

The appropriation bill for the Illinois Community College Board was the only measure to be amended Thursday.

The committee also passed budget requests for the Southern Illinois University system, $110.5 million; the Board of Regents, $106.3 million, and the Board of Governors, $104 million.

The Appropriations Committeee Wednesday passed and sent to the House the first half of the total higher education budget. The committee passed budgets totaling more than $385 million for the University of Illinois, the Illinois State Scholarship Commission and the Illinois Board of Higher Education.

In other action, Senate Democrats turned back all but one Republican attempt to tack probusiness amendments onto a workmen's compensation bill (S1967) drafted by Democratic members of the Senate Labor and Commerce Committee several weeks ago.

The amendments would have restricted benefits for persons injured on the job and tightened definitions and conditions under which the compensation could be collected by the worker.

Of the seven amendments offered by Sen. John Minrod, R-Skokie, the only one to pass was drafted by a block of downstate indepenent Democrats.

That amendment would require the state Industrial Commission to adopt standards for determing the amount of loss of hearing by workers. The amendment passed by a vote of 30-23.

SIU names two new deans

The Southern Illinois University Board of Trustees Thursday approved the appointment of two new deans for the Carbondale campus effective July 1.

John R. Darling will become dean of the College of Business and Administration. He will replace Charles Hindersman, who is returning to teaching.

Clifford D. Harper, currently an associate professor and director of the Black Studies Program at SIU-Carbondale, will become dean of General Academic Programs, a new position.

Transit budget OKd

The Illinois House Thursday passed a $1.9 billion budget for the state Dept. of Transportation.

The measure (H3816), which was hotly debated until nearly midnight Wednesday at the amendment stage, passed on a 122-24 roll call with only perfunctory debate.

It contains, among other things: $122.5 million in state funding for the Chicago-area Regional Transit Authority; $15 million in bond funds to fix 100 decrepit bridges on downstate school bus routes; and funding for the department's fiscal 1977 road program.

Despite consideration of 66 proposed amendments, the bill is in substantially the same shape as when it was introduced.

Rep. Rolland Tipsword, D-Taylorville, who sponsored the measure, said he expects it to undergo some further changes in the Senate.

Guest gardener

by RON PESCHE
of Pesche's Flowers

Perhaps the most crucial period in the life of a newly bought plant is that period of adjustment to its new home. It is within this time that most plants will either learn to live in a home or not. A few simple rules followed during this time can make quite a difference in the shade of green of your thumb!

If your new plant was in a greenhouse environment before you bought it, it's used to a hot, humid, bright environment — the most extreme condition being the humidity level difference between the greenhouse and the home. A greenhouse is usually kept at between 60 deg.-80 deg. relative humidity, while the home is usually only about 30 degrees.

In an area of high humidity, the plant will lose less water through its leaves; the move to a dry area may cause the plant to over-transporae. Over-transportation is a too rapid loss of water through the leaves, and if this is severe, water will be lost faster than the roots can transport it. Extreme defoliation and death may occur if this condition is not corrected.

Helping the plant to adjust during the first two weeks it's moved consists of very little extra care. First, keep the plant in a nice bright spot but out of direct sun for the first week. The hot light of the sun's rays may also cause the plant to use up water rapidly, and this coupled with the low humidity levels of a home will cause a much over-worked plant.

Keep the soil moist throughout the pot but be careful not to over-water during this time. A daily misting of tepid water will also help to keep the humidity high around the plant. Never spray with cold water. Cold water may shock the plant and destroy tender leaf tissue.

After the first week or two, gradually increase light and simultaneously decrease misting. In time the plant will get used to its newly adopted home and reward your efforts with fine foliage.

Clay or plastic pots?

by BILL MEACHEM

There are some things that still puzzle me, even after spending more than 25 years in the gardening business.

This spring when my community garden plot neighbor was putting out his tomato plants, I noticed that half were good, robust plants, while the others were smaller. My first reaction was that the plants were of two different varieties, but I was told they were the same and that all plants were started and potted on the same dates. The only difference was that the robust plants were grown in clay pots and the smaller ones in plastic containers.

Then my neighbor asked me why there should be a difference. I confess that I was confused briefly. But after thinking about it for a while, the only conclusion I could come to was that if both were given identical care, the plants in the plastic pots got too much water. There is a different watering technique for plants growing in plastic pots compared with those in clay. Water doesn't evaporate through the sides of plastic pots as it does with clay, so you do not have to water the soil as much.

If all your plants are in plastic pots, this is no problem. In fact, some commercial greenhouses prefer plastic pots because they do not have to be watered as often.

Now, I have been advising people to place pots of flowers and vegegtables outdoors for the summer, either on the patio or submerged in the ground (plunged). Because nature will be watering these plants most of the time, I would suggest that these plants be in clay pots rather than plastic.

You can use clay pots year after year outdoors or indoors. Be sure to wash them thoroughly before using again and spray them with an aerosol garden spray to control any insect eggs or diseases that may be harboring in the pores of the clay.

Indoors, you may have more control over watering and you can mix clay and plastic. But water plants individually. For our house plants, though, we stick to plastic and treat almost all plants the same.

It appears that there may be a difference between clay and plastic pots, depending on where they are used. Outdoors, clay or porous wood seems best; indoors, you can use the easy-to-clean plastic pots.

PETUNIAS can always be counted upon for more colors, more successful gardening and more enjoyment. No wonder we call this versatile flower the king of bedding plants!

Control apple insect pests

Home-grown apples can be kept relatively free of insect pests with some well-timed spray applications, says James E. Schuster, University of Illinois Extension Horticulturist in DuPage County.

Apple maggots are serious pests of apples, especially red varieties in the northern third of the state. This insect pest hatches from an egg laid by a fly. The fly stings the fruit skin when laying eggs. These spots then stop growing causing the infested fruit to be misshapen or lumpy. When the maggots hatch, they tunnel through the fruit leaving brown trails. Apple maggots are often called "railroad worms" because of the numerous trails or tracks left in the fruit.

To control the apple maggot, Schuster suggests a vigorous spray program from late June through mid September.

During this time, while the apple maggot is active, an insecticide should be applied every 10 to 14 days. Although an all-purpose or home fruit spray can be used, Schuster suggests using diazinon or Imidan. Use only the wettable powder formation and be sure to apply it as a spray. Make sure you stop spraying two weeks before-harvest and read and follow all directions and precautions on label.

For more information on apple maggot, write, DuPage County Cooperative Extension Service, Attn: Horticulture Department, 421 North County Farm Road, Wheaton, 60187. Ask for a free copy of J56 — "Controlling Apple Maggot." Please include a stamped, self-addressed No. 10 business sized envelope with your request.

Pick the tree you want

The Ornamental Growers Association of Northern Illinois has some specific recommendations for you to help you begin beautiful and decorative plantings on your homegrounds this year.

Among the shade trees which will do well in the Chicago area, says the O.G.A., are these:

Thornless honeylocust: A handsome, clean, and rapid growing tree, with delicate, fernlike foliage. Particularly good in areas where you don't want deep shade.

Schwedler maple: The leaves of this tree are a dark purple in spring, turning dark green in summer. The tree achieves an ultimate height of some forty feet. The famous Crimson King maple, which keeps its deep purple foliage all through the season, is a form of the Schwedler variety.

Sugar maple: A shade tree with outstanding seasonal coloration, especially its blazing yellow-to-red autumn foliage. It's a tree of dense, upright growth, reaching sixty to eighty feet.

Norway maple: A strong tree with deep green large leaves, the Norway maple is desirable for street and lawn planting.

Silver maple: A soft-wooded, very fast-growing tree, which may reach 70-80 feet. In contrast to the dark green foliage of the Norway maple, the silver maple has light green leaves which are silvery white underneath.

Among the "ornamentals," so called because they decorate rather than shade the homegrounds, are the following trees:

American redbud: An ornamental which is covered with gorgeous purple blossoms before foliage comes out in the spring. Redbuds are useful as accents in a shrub border or as single specimens.

Flowering crabs: Possibly our most desirable ornamental flowering trees. In the early spring they all bear masses of very showy flowers and in the early fall are covered with colorful decorative fruits which they retain for some time. There are many varieties of flowering crabs with pink, white and red blooms, with considerable latitufe in the ultimate size of the plant.

Newport plum: A different kind of flowering ornamental which is distinguished by its purple leaves, and which reaches a height of about twenty feet at maturity.

Among the evergreens, the O.G A. recommends:

Hetz's blue juniper, Pfitzers juniper and Andorra juniper: All are spreading junipers, which are hardy in Chicagoland and easily grown.

Douglas fir: An extremely popular and decorative evergreen, graceful and compact, with soft, fragrant foliage. It has short needles and grows rapidly into a magnificent bluish-green evergreen of great height and majesty.

Colorado blue spruce (and Colorado green spruce): Trees with steel blue or lustrous dark green foliage respectively, these evergreens are still an all-time landscape standard.

Austrian pine: Pines which are roundish in shape and vigorous growers. Their base-spread nearly equals their height, and the tree thrives under trying conditions.

Spreading Japanese yew: A shrub, which like all the other yews has a waxy, dark green color, an abundance of scarlet berries, and general, all-round hardiness. Yews are practically free of disease and insects.

All of these trees, ornamentals and shrubs are described — and many are pictured — in the free "Planting Guide for Northern Illinois" which is offered as a public service by the O.G.A. Write: O.G.A., 645 N. Milwaukee Ave., Wheeling 60090.

NOT FANCY, but attractive and inexpensive, this vegetable garden is growing in four-gallon buckets, seven-gallon tubs and 20-gallon garbabe cans, all green.

Flowering annuals add brightness

Flowering annual plants can keep your garden bright and colorful after spring flowering bulbs and shrubs have come and gone, says James E. Schuster, University of Illinois Extension horticulturist at the Cooperative Extension Service Office in Wheaton.

Good selections of started plants are available at greenhouses, retail nurseries, supermarkets and garden centers. Some common, easy-to-grow annuals are petunias, snapdragons, zinnias, marigolds, sweet alyssum, salvia, celosia, balsam and asters.

You can buy flowering annuals in small flats that contain two or three dozen plants or in "market paks" that contain six, eight or 12 plants. The small market paks are more convenient because you keep the plants in the container for a few days if you can't plant immediately.

Many supply centers sell hybrid petunias and large ruffled or double petunias in peat pots that can be planted pot and all.

Select plants that have dark green color from soil line to the top of the plant. Plants that are yellow may be underfertilized or overwatered and are not good buys, Schuster says.

Buy snapdragons and petunias that have been "pinched" to produce several breaks or stems per plant. This practice results in a better-looking plant that yields an abundance of flowers during the summer.

Fertilizer is important. While preparing the bed for planting, use two to three pounds of 5-10-5, 10-6-4 or fertilizer with similar analysis per 100 square feet of bed area. Be sure to water the garden thoroughly after planting.

In July or August add 1½ pounds of fertilizer per 100 square feet of garden to keep plants growing and flowering.

Applying about three inches of mulch such as peat moss, crushed corncobs or shredded bark will help control weeds and conserve moisture, Schuster adds. But be sure the bed is weed-free before you apply mulching materials. If you mulch, be sure to fertilize plantings during July and August.

Meadows voters have rare chance Saturday

Saturday is a day of major significance for the 21-year-old City of Rolling Meadows.

Voters will decide the future structure of their city's government.

It took pluck for the early settlers of Rolling Meadows, spurned by their neighbors, to organize a city. And it will take courage to set the city on a future course that will improve the quality of local government while recognizing and continuing the unique qualities of Rolling Meadows.

Three questions will be on the referendum ballot in Rolling Meadows Saturday:

- Shall the city adopt the managerial form of municipal government?
- Shall the city, if it adopts the managerial form of municipal government, continue to elect aldermen from wards?
- Shall only one alderman hereafter be elected from each ward . . ?

A unique set of political circumstances has placed these questions before the voters. But whether the background is political or not, the opportunity is genuine. We hope the citizens of Rolling Meadows make the most of it.

The Herald strongly recommends a "Yes" vote on the first two referendum issues; we feel the third question is less clear-cut, and rather than making a recommendation, we will attempt to outline what is at stake in that question.

The professional manager form of municipal government has worked well in most Northwest suburban communities, and we believe it would serve Rolling Meadows well. Under the current form of government, the elected mayor in many respects is the administrator of the city. Under the proposed system, the mayor and councilmen would determine policy for the city, and the manager— a hired professional — would be expected to carry it through. Day-to-day operations of the city would be substantially depoliticized.

We believe the ward system has worked well in Rolling Meadows. Like any other system, it is subject to abuse, but it has provided substantial representation and a feeling of involvement for the citizens of the community. That is why we urge voters to retain the ward system for electing councilmen. (The alternative, under a city manager system, would be four councilmen elected at-large from the community.)

The third question — of reducing the number of aldermen per ward from two to one — presents a dilemma. At its present size, Rolling Meadows has five wards. With two aldermen per ward, Rolling Meadows would retain a 10-member council. We're not sure that large a council is needed with a full-time professional city manager and mayor. Reducing the representation to one alderman per ward would cut the council's size to only five aldermen.

Furthermore, the city is only 215 residents short of 20,000. When a census is taken determining that the city has reached that size, the number of wards automatically will jump to seven.

With two aldermen per ward, the council would be composed of 14 persons. We are not sure the city needs — or wants to support — that large a council.

A "Yes" vote on Question 3 (provided the other two measures are approved) would cut, temporarily, the council's size from 10 to 5. Several of the aldermen whose positions would be eliminated next April are capable men who have contributed a great deal to the city. But a "Yes" vote also would guarantee a city council of manageable size — 5 now and 7 in the near future when Rolling Meadows reaches 20,000.

A "No" vote on question 3 would preserve the council at 10 members for the present and almost certainly would result in a council of 14 aldermen in a few years.

Voters will have to decide what priority to give these conflicting considerations. Either direction, we feel, will continue the general form and style of government which has fitted the needs of the city well.

The two critical questions are the first two, and we hope voters will give their approval to both.

Forum would have informed

On several occasions we have lauded Rolling Meadows' elected officials for calling Saturday's referendum, which will give voters a rare chance to restructure their government.

Mayor Roland J. Meyer proposed that elected officials cooperate in holding public forums to explain the three-part referendum. The merits of each referendum question obviously can be debated, and the position of the mayor and aldermen naturally would vary from question to question, depending on the individual's vantage point.

Nevertheless, we don't know anyone in the city who is in a better position to explain the referendum than the mayor and councilmen, and we are dismayed that aldermen did not agree to the planned public forums but chose, instead, to distribute referendum literature individually.

Des Plaines forum a good gesture

Three Des Plaines aldermen have thrown their hats into the ring to be the next mayor of Des Plaines, and we believe the people of the city should have an opportunity to meet the candidates before one is selected.

The city council will select an interim mayor in secret balloting at the June 21 council meeting. Although the voting aldermen presumably know the varying degrees of competence of the three candidates, the people deserve a chance to see and hear the men vying for the post.

Conceivably, one, or possibly all three of the current candidates, have enough interest in the city's top job to be on the ballot for a full term next April. We urge the Des Plaines League of Women Voters or other civic minded groups to host a forum for the benefit of the community who may in turn influence their aldermen on choosing the next mayor of Des Plaines.

Urges at-large election for Meadows' councilmen

Future growth of the City of Rolling Meadows will be almost entirely in the area west of Route 53 and predominately around Meacham-Plum Grove Road and the county land to the west.

The completion of the Kirchoff Road improvement (Hicks to Plum Grove), the building of a nursing home across from Winthrop Village and the two new fast-food restaurants at the southwest corner of Euclid and Plum Grove, will provide ample excuse for renewed effort on the part of realtors, land speculators and promotional developers to again attempt penetration of the area with requests for commercial zoning. One need only look at the territory around Wilke and Algonquin Roads, awash with fast food restaurants and gas stations, to see a preview of what can happen to the second and third precincts of the First Ward, and the county land adjacent.

The 1976-77 budget for the city ($4.7 million . . . up 9 per cent) means increased pressure for more sales tax revenue. However, there is a line to be drawn somewhere, for it is unfair to demoralize a neighborhood with indiscriminate commercial zoning for tax gathering purposes, simply because that's the only territory left to exploit.

Our aldermen have helped all they can, but it is too easy for the council members from the wards east of 53 to rationalize . . . "more commercial zoning in Precincts 2 and 3 of the 1st Ward and will happen anyway, so let's get the sales taxes now" . . . knowing they will never have to face 1st Ward people at the ballot box. Somehow we must again make our presence felt at city hall, and the following is suggested:

By good fortune, there will be a city referendum on June 12, in which voters will be asked to decide the following questions, which essentially are:

1. Should the city have a city manager type government?
2. Should the city retain 10 aldermen (2 per ward)?
3. Should the city have 5 aldermen (1 per ward)?

State law provides that if a municipality elects to have a managerial form of government, but does not also approve — by a majority of the votes cast — a specific number of aldermen to be elected by wards, then alderman will be elected at large, which in the case of the City of Rolling Meadows, based on population, would be 4. When aldermen are elected at large all of the voters would have opportunity to vote for all of the candidates, and it is no longer possible for an alderman to decide issues affecting areas outside his ward and escape voter reaction by those directly affected.

I am proposing that we vote "yes" on Question 1 . . . since city managerships generally speaking have been successful, but that we vote "no" on questions 2 and 3 so as to bring about a council composed of aldermen elected at-large, and thus accountable to all of the voters.

Please consider this proposal . . . and be sure to vote on Saturday, June 12. Cardinal Drive School . . . 6 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Harold Brissenden
Rolling Meadows

(Editor's note: Actually, the second question is whether the city shall continue to have wards. A yes vote on the second question and a no vote on the third would retain the present number of aldermen (10). In order to reduce the number of aldermen to five, voters must vote yes on all three questions.)

City's celebration tops

We'd like to express three thoughts:

First — Thanks Bicentennial committee for a great weekend of events.

Second — Thanks Lord. The weather couldn't have been better.

Third — To all non-participating citizens of our newly incorporated city, you'll never know what a grand weekend you missed. Unless, of course, you plan to be around 100 years from now for the tricentennial celebration.

Column on Carter 'inane'

I recently told a friend that life is not as tough for Christians as it once was, at least no one is throwing us to the lions. His answer, "They are killing us in different ways," still rings in my ears. Perhaps throwing a Christian politician to the press is one of these ways; Jimmy Carter certainly has reason to share this viewpoint.

Several articles have been written which depict Carter as a hypocrite, but none I have read are as inane as the column written by Ray Cromley which appeared in the May 21 Herald. The cartoon showing a Communist complete with hammer and sickle insignia out stumping for Carter is grossly unfair and completely unfounded. It is ironic that directly above this article was The Herald motto: "Our aim: to fear God, tell the truth and make money."

Carefully selecting those statements which can be distorted to mean something in line with the writer's own opinions is not objective reporting. This industry accepted practice of selecting and slanting does much to discredit responsible and professional reporting.

I don't know if Jimmy Carter's name will appear on the November presidential election ballot. And if it does, I may or may not vote for him. That is not important. But I would like to ask Paddock Publications one question. If there is enough evidence in a man's life to convict him of being a Christian, does that disqualify him for public office?

Jim Robbins
Elk Grove Village

(Editor's note: The Herald editorially supported Jimmy Carter in Illinois' Democratic primary. The cartoon was a tongue-in-cheek response to reports that the Russians hoped for a Carter-Ford contest.)

Gerald Ford 'best choice'

Regardless of losing a number of primary elecitons President Gerald R. Ford is the best qualified candidate for the presidency in November, 1976. He is not the ignorant, "stumble-bum" that his enemies try to depict. Actually he is one of the most intelligent, graceful and athletic presidents to have served this country. He is in good health and is recognized as a man of intense honesty and personal pride; he obtained an excellent education on his own merits, not through family, wealth, military or political clout, by graduating from the University of Michigan with an A.B. degree in 1935 and from Yale Law School with an LL.B degree in 1941. This education places him on at least an equal footing with any of the other candidates, regardless of political party.

President Ford served 47 months of active duty in the U.S. Navy during World War II and was released to inactive duty with the rank of lieutenant commander in 1946. His military record places him on a higher plane than most of the other candidates, including the rich, Georgia farm-boy, Jimmy Carter, who fought WW II from Southwestern U., 1941-42, Georgia Institute of Technology, 1942-43, and Annapolis Naval Academy, 1943-46.

To further dispel the portrait of President Ford being an ignorant, "stumble-bum" let's take a good look at his record. He was elected to the 81st Congress on Nov. 2, 1948; reelected, every two years, to the 82nd through the 93rd Congress (13 terms in all) and elected minority leader of the House of Representatives on Jan. 1, 1965. On Oct. 12, 1973 he was nominated for the position of vice president of the U.S. to fill the unexpired term of former Vice President Spiro Agnew. He was confirmed as vice president, with a vote of 92 for and 3 against, by the U.S. Senate on Nov. 27, 1973. He was inaugurated as vice president on Dec. 6, 1973, after the House approved him by a vote of 387 for and 35 against. He succeeded to the presidency upon Richard Nixon's resignation, Aug. 9, 1974. Since becoming President of the U.S. he has done an honest and creditable job, under the trying aftermath of Watergate and the task of converting this country back from a wartime to a peacetime economy. He did this under the close scrutiny of a Democratic Congress.

The above record marks President Ford as the best choice for the presidency. This country will be taking a serious chance if it loses such a fine leader to a candidate of unknown, untested qualities in national and international affairs.

County worker head tax: Is it only the beginning?

by WANDALYN RICE
A news analysis

Behind the current uproar over Cook County Board Pres. George W. Dunne's proposed employe head tax lurk two issues that contain even more explosive power — metropolitan government and the future of the county's home-rule power.

The two issues are tied together because between them they may determine what relationship suburban communities have to both the county and the City of Chicago until well into the next century.

The home-rule power, which is the basis the county will use for adopting the tax, was granted the county under the 1970 Illinois Constitution with a provision that county residents could, if they wished, petition for a referendum to remove the power.

SINCE THEN occasional groups burned by the country's use of the power — homeowners in unincorporated areas when the county passed the wheel tax and liquor dealers after enactment of the liquor tax — have talked about a home-rule referendum. To date, no specific moves have been made in that direction.

Talk about the possibility of a referendum will undoubtedly increase if, as seems inevitable, the county adopts the employe head tax. The tax, a $3 a month levy on businesses for each of their employes, would bring in an estimated $54 million. two-thirds of which would be returned to Chicago and suburban municipalities as "revenue sharing."

It is the revenue-sharing aspect of the tax, so far greeted with less than wild enthusiasm by suburban officials, which some opponents believe raises the spector of a metropolitan government in Cook County. It would bring the suburbs under the all-pervasive sway of Chicago Democrats.

Republican County Comr. Carl Hansen of Mount Prospect says he is worried that the revenue-sharing program would give the county the first opportunity to intrude on suburban governments.

"ONCE THEY GET a hold of the purse strings, they can start handing down edicts on how money is spent," Hansen says.

Such domination, Hansen and other suburban Republicans believe, would lead to a catastrophe for the suburbs. It would overshadow the current problems suburbanites have with the Regional Transportation Authority because in the county the suburbs lack any kind of veto power over county board actions.

While suburbanites on the RTA Board can threaten to hold up the agency's budget unless they get concessions from the Chicago Democrats on the board, suburban county board members are essentially a helpless minority.

The suburban commissioners did have a veto power for nearly a year after the suburbs won a sixth board seat because the board's rules said 11 of the 16 votes on the board were needed to approve expenditures.

FOR MOST OF that year the 10 Chicago Democrats had no trouble picking up one Republican vote on budget items, but the suburban veto died a quick death last October when it looked as though the GOP vote would not be available to approve a county grant to the Chicago Transit Authority.

The Democrats removed the veto by the simple expedient of passing, by a simple majority, an ordinance under home-rule power repealing the requirement for a two-thirds vote on budget issues.

The suburban Republican commissioners have filed a court suit attempting to overturn the board action, but the loss of the veto has impressed them with Democratic power and what they see as insensitivity to suburban rights.

Hansen says any move that could make suburban municipalities dependent on county taxes for revenue would further tip the power balance toward the Chicago Democrats on the board.

He says, "The most ominous aspect (of the head tax) is a severe threat of a first step toward metropolitan government and the domination by the Chicago commissioners of all suburban processes."

Hearing on head tax June 21

the Cook County Board Finance Committee will conduct a public hearing on the proposed county employe head tax at 2 p.m. June 21 in Chicago.

The hearing will take testimony from persons who favor or oppose the proposed tax. The $3 per month tax per employe would be paid by businesses with more than 15 employes on the payroll.

County officials estimate the tax will bring in $54 million a year. Under the proposal, two-thirds of the revenue would be dispersed to municipalities in the county. More than $22 million would go to Chicago.

Senior citizens' aging program set for Tuesday

The Senior Citizen Program at Harper College is sponsoring a special conference, "Impact II — A Program on Aging." The conference will be held from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Tuesday at Rolling Meadows High School, 2901 Central Rd., Rolling Meadows.

Lt. Gov. Neil Hartigan will speak to the group on "New Roles in a New Society" and a Grey Panther representative will discuss "A New Image of Aging."

Nine seminar topics will be offered from which participants will select two. Seminar topics include: Staying on Top When the World Seems Down, Feeling Good and Enjoying More, Don't Stop the Music (activities) and A College for Seniors - Could it Happen Here?

Transportation to Rolling Meadows High School is available from Palatine, Wheeling, Elk Grove and Schaumburg Townships and must be prearranged. Lunch will be provided for $1.50. Persons may bring their own lunch. Registration is $3. Advanced registration is urged. The school is air conditioned and participants may need a sweater. Comptroller Lindberg says:

Tax increase may result if his plan isn't followed

by STEVE BROWN

State Comptroller George Lindberg said Thursday that the Illinois General Assembly's refusal to examine his plan to avoid a tax increase may ultimately translate into a tax hike in the next few months.

In a series of press conferences around the state, Lindberg unveiled a 19-point program which he contends will allow the state to avoid a tax increase next year.

Lindberg had asked leaders of the Illinois General Assembly to allow him to present the plan before a joint session of both houses. However Senate Pres.Cecil Partee, D-Chicago, refused to grant Lindberg's request.

WHEN ASKED if the refusal to allow the presentation could make a tax hike inevitable, Lindberg said "it may translate into that."

The comptroller's plan essentially calls for spending cuts during the next year.

Lindberg calls the program "a year of sacrifice" for state government. A number of aspects of Lindberg's plan have already been proposed by other state officials, however, he contended this is the first time a comprehensive plan has been assembled.

The plan does not include any call for new taxes in the state. When Lindberg first announced that he would present the proposal, he refused to rule out the possibility that a new tax might be suggested.

A portion of the 19-point program embraces Gov. Daniel Walker's accelerated tax collection plan. That proposal was killed in the legislature earlier this week, but Lindberg said the plan, which would give the state an extra $95 million during the next fiscal year, could still be resurrected.

OTHER ASPECTS of the plan call for holding the line of spending for new programs, reducing the state's welfare costs and spreading the state's $150 million payment to schools for special education and transportation programs through the year, rather than making the entire payment in September.

Lindberg also suggested making the state's monthly education payments twice a month. The state presently pays out the school aid money in one $100 million payment. Lindberg said the double payments would help ease the cash flow problems.

Lindberg already has predicted the state will not be able to pay all of its bills in September and October.

"I proposed the 19 steps as a way out of the cash shortage which has gripped the state since last September. The alternative to this plan is fiscal chaos or new taxes, Lindberg said.

He suggested the Democratic leaders of the legislature refused to hear his plan, because Mayor Richard J. Daley has his own program for spending cuts or new taxes.

Palatine man wins pipesmoking contest

Daniel O'Brien of Palatine won a recent pipe smoking contest held at Randhurst Shopping Center, smoking his pipe for 1 hour and 19 minutes and breaking the Milwaukee, Wis., record of 1 hour and 12 minutes.

Second-place honors went to Tony Valiteno of Des Plaines, who managed to puff the pipe for 1 hour and 4 minutes.

Other Northwest suburban residents placing in the competition were: Ron Zinkus of Des Plaines, taking seventh after smoking for 50 minutes and Jim Grady of Mount Prospect, taking eighth after smoking for 47 minutes.

Karl Saionz of Arlington Heights was the first smoker to go out of the contest after 20 minutes. Saionz received a plaqcue inscribed: "To the smoker who tried the hardest and attained the least."

House extends life of federal energy unit

From the Roll Call Reports

Here is how members of Illinois' congressional delegation and the state's two U.S. senators voted on major issues in Washington recently.

House

FEA EXTENSION: The House adopted 194-172 an amendment extending for 18 months, rather than 39 months, the Federal Energy Agency. The FEA was created by Congress in 1974 during the energy crisis. Since then another agency was created to develop national energy plans.

Virtually all Congressmen agreed the agency should be terminated at some future date, but some argued the new president should be given time to study the situation.

YES: Crane, Mikva, Russo, Derwinski, Collins, Yates, Hall, Anderson Findley, Shipley and Simon.

NO: Metcalfe, Murphy, Fary, Hyde, Rostenkowski, Annunzio, McClory, Erlenborn, O'Brien, Michel, Railsback, Madigan and Price.

KOREAN AID: The House adopted 241-159 an amendment to delete a $290 million ceiling on aid to South Korea during fiscal 1976 and 1977. The amendment was attached to a $6.2 billion foreign military aid bill.

Supporters of the move to lift the ceiling said additional aid is needed to help make South Korea militarily self-supporting.

Opponents said the cuts would help force South Korean officials to end the abridgement of civil rights there.

YES: Crane, Murphy, Derwinski, Fary, Hyde, Collins, Rostenowski, Yates, Annunzio, McClory, Erlenborn, Hall, Anderson, O'Brien, Michel, Railsback, Findley, Madigan, Shipley and Price.

NO: Mikva, Metcalfe, Russo and Simon.

Senate

ABSENTEEISM: The Senate moved 41-6 to direct the sergeant at arms to "round up" absent senators in order to achieve the quorum to conduct legislative businesses. There was no pro-con debate and the effort produced the quorum.

Writes musical for her dog

A new Sarah Miles is emerging

by VERNON SCOTT

Sarah Miles says she has mended her ways. No longer is she the madcap, eccentric, quotable English actress of the past.

Lest anyone think Sarah has become just another colorless Briton, she posed recently for a nude layout in Playboy. She also has written a two-hour theatrical musical which will star her dog, Gladys.

Captivating as ever, Sarah pulled up for lunch in a dusty, battered Volkswagen. Her hair stood out in a thousand ringlets. She was dressed, braless, in a coarse-woven, floor-length gown. She was accompanied by the ubiquitous Gladys.

Gladys is a large, unfriendly and somewhat scraggly Skye terrier. Gladys has the charm and vivacity of a pet rock.

Sarah wended her way to a table and deposited herself with panache. Gladys issued a sign and fell in a lump under the table where she remained motionless, possibly playing dead, for two hours.

The actress was told that Gladys hardly seemed worth grooming for stardom.

"RUBBISH," she replied. "Gladys will become a star. She's very well liked. Last Valentine's Day she received six cards from friends. I got none.

"The title of my musical is 'Gladys,' and I've written the script entirely in verse. Gladys will be on stage with me throughout."

Sarah reeled off several stanzas of verse, all quite good, from the first act of her show. The project unmistakably is important to her.

"I am a different woman than I was a year ago," she said. "And I owe it all to one scene in my new movie, 'The Sailor Who Fell From The Sea With Grace.' One day in front of the camera is responsible for my new confidence."

After reading the script Sarah felt she was compelled to play an explicit, self-stimulating, sexual scene in full view of a crew of English stagehands and technicians.

"None of them had ever shot a scene like that and, of course, neither had I," she said. "They were as embarrassed and self-conscious as I was. I tried to play the scene with as much dignity and femininity as possible.

"I'VE DONE MANY love scenes where I had someone to cling to. But in a scene such as this you have only yourself. It was a terrible, lonely ordeal.

"I saw the rushes the next night and I felt I'd almost achieved what I wanted. That moment of loneliness gave me enormous strength and self-confidence as an actress and a person. I conquered my fears. It was something I had to do.

"Now my final fear is singing. I hope to overcome that little cancer with the musical show I've written for Gladys and me.

"No one can imagine how wonderful it is to be free of long-standing fears. Now I'm not even afraid of death.

"I've found a new excitement and purpose in life. For years I lacked strength. I was full of pretense and fright.

"My ex-husband (Robert Bolt) said I was the most frightened person he knew. And I think he was right. To make up for my fears I said and did outrageous things. It was just to cover my own feelings of inadequacy.

"Now I am totally alone and rudely happy. More so than ever before in my life."

Sarah Miles

SARAH HAS made her home in Southern California for the past two years, living on the beach at Malibu.

She has put the place up for sale and bought a canyon home. Sarah found the beach depressing with its steady, unrelenting cadence of combers.

"I waited and waited for it to miss just one beat," she said.

"But it didn't happen. Not a single wave missed coming to the shore."

Sarah has no intention of returning to England where her parents continue to make their home.

"Life in England is like walking in wet felt," she said.

"There is no energy, no contact with action. Everyone with talent and dreams has congregated in Hollywood. This place is bursting with energy."

So is the new Sarah Miles. But the same cannot be said of Gladys. Roused from her sleep, the mop-like dog grumbled and unsteadily gained her feet. She waddled to the exit disdainfully unconcerned whether Sarah followed or not.

Clearly, Sarah's greatest challenge will be making a star of the taciturn terrier.

Biographer tells detective writer's own racy story

by JOHN MAES
(A book review)

Raymond Chandler helped breathe life into the character of the super-sleuthing private eye as an American literary here.

His creation of Phillip Marlowe, acid-tongued, wisecracking but diligent private snooper has won Chandler a following of cultists who revere him as one of America's foremost detective writers, right alongside Dashiell Hammett.

Now, biographer Frank MacShane has provided a candid and incisive chronicle of the turbulent private life of the master of detective fiction that any Chandler buff would love in "The Life of Raymond Chandler," E. P. Dutton & Co. ($12.50).

Writing only six novels, all told, the first not published until he was 50, Chandler's life was a succession of disappointments and frustrations that were exacerbated by alcohol and his own tendency for self-deprecation.

Born in 1888, the son of a railroad engineer, Chandler was Nebraska-reared until the age of 7 when his mother moved him to the suburbs of London and enrolled him in the Dulwich preparatory school.

IT WAS HERE he acquired an Anglophilian snobbishness that would later lead him to shun the proletarian simplicity of life in America's Midwest where he would later return.

At Dulwich, he developed a passion for literature under a headmaster who was himself an accomplished novelist but Chandler showed no signs of literary aptitude while in school.

As a young man, Chandler periodically wrote poems published in English magazines and journals. But writing was not yet to be his livelihood, and after an unsuccessful fling as a newspaper reporter he returned to America and ended up on the West Coast.

After a military stint in the Canadian army during World War I, Chandler then in his early'30s married a woman nearly 20 years his senior and settled into an executive job with an oil company.

But problems set in and drunkeness along with an acerb relationship with clients and associates took him tumbling from wealth and position in 1932.

STILL DETERMINED to make it as a writer, however, Chandler caught on with the Black Mask, a pulp detective magazine of the day for which he wrote private-eye short stories, but for a barely subsistence wage.

His stories, "Blackmailers Don't Shoot" (1933) and "Finger Man" (1934) among them earned him only about one-tenth the salary he made in his former job but the quality of his work was being detected.

A student of Hammett's work, whose detective thrillers included "Maltese Falcon," Chandler in 1939 produced the first of his novels, "The Big Sleep."

In an interlude of happiness, his pride and self-confidence soaring, Chandler cranked out three more high acclaimed works by 1943, "Farewell My Lovely," "The High Window" and "Lady in the Lake."

By this time his reputation led him to Hollywood to write screenplays but, once again, booze along with hectic deadlines and pugnacity toward fellow writers and producers brought on another demise in the mid-1940s.

HIS LAST TWO books, "Little Sister" (1949) and "The Long Goodbye" (1958), won lesser acclaim than his previous works and that, coupled with the death of his wife, Cissy, in 1954, sent him into further despair.

He described his gloom periodically in poetry during the final years and even tried to shoot himself once, but he fired an errant bullet while checking the gun and dismissed the idea of suicide.

He took ill from heavy drinking and died in March of 1959.

Make no mistake that MacShane writes a good biography about a good writer. His honesty and straightforwardness about the seamy side of Chandler's life are laudable.

But MacShane perhaps over-eulogizes Chandler's influence on the saga of American literature even though fans of the private-eye novel will readily argue that Chandler had few equals in the genre of detective fiction.

Raymond Chandler

Shirley McLaine records a night at the Palace

Playback

by Tom Von Malder

Shirley MacLaine took 22 years to return to Broadway after her debut in "Pajama Game" but she was still able to wow them last April when she grossed more than $329,000 in a two-week stint at the Palace Theatre.

One night of that successful engagement has been preserved on vinyl, "Live At The Palace" (Columbia records), and you at home can have almost as much fun as those who were in the theater (the sole drawback is having to imagine the dances — but if she comes to Mill Run this fall you'll have them too).

The show emphasizes MacLaine's career. She briefly summarizes it in "Remember Me," mentioning her trip to China, four Oscar nominations, brother Warren Beatty ("he was prettier than me") and the abundance of hookers she has played (14 out of 37 movie roles). Also, six songs are from her two most famous "hooker" roles, "Sweet Charity" and "Irma La Douce."

There is a musical monolog based on the character Ginny Moorhead in "Some Came Running," which she says was her favorite role. The piece is very emotional as the character pleads for love and understanding. It's called "I'm A Person Too."

MacLaine wisely chooses not to have a preponderance of belters. There are several good ballads, including "Irma La Douce"" and "It's Not Where You Start" from "Seesaw." "Big Spender" is the best of the belters.

A change of pace on this delightful album is a hustle version of "The Donkey Seranade."

Veteran Chicago folkie Steve Goodman has a fine, if somewhat subdued new albun in "Words We Can Dance To" (Asylum). The best songs are the tender ballad "Old Fashioned," with its strings, and the uptempo "Can't Go Back," which is some fatherly advice on the subject of women.

"Banana Republics" has a nice recorder beginning and a slow, swaying rhythm that fits the locale. The lyrics mix satire, political commentary and pathos and are among the album's best. Another "different" song is "Death of a Salesman" with its Civil War sound, switch on the old farmer's daughter — salesman jokes and corny W.C. Fields' accent.

There also is the 1961 rocker "Tossin' and Turnin' " and the 1936 ballad "The Glory of Love," on which Goodman performs solo.

The album isn't his strongest ("Somebody Else's Troubles" was that), but it makes good listening.

Other new releases:

• "Surprises" by Herbie Mann (Atlantic). The first side is one of Mann's best, and vocalist Cissy Houston (formerly with Sweet Inspirations) is the big plus. There is the reggae "Draw Your Breaks," J. J. Cale's "Cajun Moon," the soulful "Easter Rising" and a fine version of Stevie Wonder's "Creepin'."

The second side is highlighted by three tunes recorded in Japan with the help of local musicians. "Anata" with Akiko Mosaka's vocal is excellent.

• "I Only Have Eyes For You" by Johnny Mathis (Columbia). This is a good album although not one of his best. The use of female backup on "Do Me Wrong But Do Me" comes across as too sweet but it works on the uptempo "Ooh What We Do." The title track is a good revival of an old standard (much like "Stardust on a former album), and "Send In the Clowns" and "Theme From Mahogany" are effective.

Soundings:

With the success of re-promoted Beatles' singles in Europe (in England all 23 singles made the Top 100), Capitol Records has released "Got To Get You Into My Life" here as a single for the first time. It is backed with "Helter Skelter."

Both songs also will be featured in "Rock 'N' Roll Music" which Capitol is releasing this week. This third Beatles' anthology contains 28 rockers, including renditions of tunes by CHUCK BERRY, LARRY WILLIAMS and CARL PERKINS, as well as Beatle compositions.

New albums in the works include efforts by CROSBY & NASH, saxophonist JOHN KLEMMER (whose recent "Touch" remains a strong seller), GRINDERSWITCH, JACKSON BROWNE, BONNIE BRAMLETT and the MARSHALL TUCKER BAND'S "Long Hard Ride."

In the area: MARSHALL SHALL TUCKER BAND'S GROSS, Saturday, Uptown Theatre; TOM RUSH, through Sunday, Amazingrace, Evanston; BUDDY MILES, through Sunday, Quiet Night; and PARLIAMENT, Sunday, Chicago Amphitheatre.

'Woodswoman' good reading for the weary urbanite

The book stall

"WOODSWOMAN"
by ANNE LABASTILLE
E. P. Dutton & Co., $10.95

There is a little of the North Woods in all of us. To escape the city with its traffic jams, pollution and rigors of 40-hour work weeks and head for the serenity of the North lands is tempting at times.

But, usually a weekend or week of "roughing it" will revive us and the luxuries of the city become more appealing than ever.

Not for Anne LaBastille. Born in New York City, she spent her first college summer working at a backwoods resort and was caught by the spell of the wilderness.

When her marriage to another woodsman dissolved, Ms. LaBastille decided this was her chance to realize a lifelong dream.

SHE BOUGHT 22 acres of virgin forest on a lonely lake in New York's Adirondack Pack and $600 of logs, then started work on a log cabin that has been her home for more than 10 years.

Ms. LaBastille, who holds a doctorate in wilderness ecology and was the recipient of the World Wildlife Fund Gold Medal for Conservation in 1974, shares her adventures in the North Woods in her book "Woodswoman."

Access to the primitive log cabin is by boat in the warm months or by snowshoes or snowmobile in the winter. This helps to keep away unwanted guests and gives her an opportunity to commune with wildlife in its natural surroundings. In the summer months when tourists sometimes "crowd" the lake, Ms. LaBastille packs her backpack and heads out on trips for remote areas.

LIFE IN THE North Woods isn't without its hardships. There are the rigors of chopping enough wood for the winter months; dipping for water through the ice when the lake freezes; fearing trees may fall through the cabin during a heavy storm; and worryign about the unavailability of help in an emergency.

Perils Ms. LaBastille relates in the book include the time her dog trapped an angry bear in a tree; when she was notified her cabin was 13 feet closer to the lake than permitted and the entire cabin would have to be moved back 13 feet or demolished; the time she was nearly trapped in her outboard boat in the middle of the lake by a rapid freeze-up, and her emergency exit when she had appendicitis.

THE BOOK ISN'T a masterpiece, but it's easy to read and offers a chance to dream about another way of life in the comfort of one's home.

"WOMEN, MONEY AND POWER,"
by PHYLLIS CHESLER
and EMILY JANE GOODMAN.
Morros, $8.95

Women are ignorant in the use and control of money and power in America, despite all those rich widows and hands rocking the cradle. "Women are not the masters of sexual economics, men are," the authors declare in this surprisingly shocking study of the ways in which women are cheated of their rightful position in society. This is a revealing polemic that should be read by both sexes.

—Glenne Currie (UPI)

"BURKE'S STEERAGE,"
by TOM BURKE.
Putnam, $10

Burke gets on with odd — or individual — types of celebrities and writes about them with a mixture of vitriol and compassion. He manages a sympathy with his subjects in this collection of character sketches while never blinding himself to their weaknesses.

"Irreverent" is the popular word for his approach. The notables range from Ryan O'Neal to Truman Capote. The pieces on Peter and Jane Fonda are of particular interest — outstanding, really.

'Cowboy' recaps wild west

by BONITA BRODT
A review

After a couple of holes have been worn in the soles of tattered cowboy boots and the pearl-handled sharpshooter has long been retired to the toy box, it is easy to forget those vivid, childhood fantasies of cowboys in the wild west.

But "Cowboy," currently on stage Monday nights at the Country Club Showcase Theater, Mount Prospect, serves as an instant replay.

From the moment the cast of five walks on stage to don western garb to the time the players remove all their cowboy hats and bandanas signaling the end of the show, the audience is engulfed in a colorful and imaginative western parody.

IN THIS, his first full-length original script, Kent Monken captures those adventurous childhood dreams and heroes each of us, in part, remember so well. Yet, not all the interludes are familiar. Monken intersperses chosen bits of authentic western history with myth and legend to very simply — but powerfully — entertain us.

The well-written script is a demanding one for the five actors who altogether portray over 30 different characters. But no matter who's up, the portrayals are always snappy and alive.

Only the barest of props are used — a chair or a table. Yet a mere change in clothing, mannerism and voice immediately personalizes and sets apart each hero.

A rapid pace, instilled by director Mike Sims, never allows our attention to falter. Often a scene is going on at one end of the stage, the actors suddenly freeze, and instantly another scene opens at the other end. The technique demands target concentration from each of the actors.

MUSIC IS ALSO effective in setting the mood. During certain character narrations, western theme songs like "The Good, The Bad And The Ugly" and "Desperado" are used to highlight scenes.

Most innovative and dynamic is the lighting. Cowboys creep about in shadows. A door creaks open slowly to reveal a darkened silhouette. However, the most striking scnes are the fights for which the bright rhythmic blinking of a strobe light lends a slow-motion effect.

Altogether it's a group effort, including acting. No one outshines anyone else.

Ted Hoerl is one of the most adaptable actors on stage. His voice changes like clockwork when clicking from the comic Butch Cassidy, a frontiersman facing the deterioration of his marriage, to a raspy, tobacco-chewing cowhand sitting around the campfire.

MONKEN HIMSELF appears in the show as an effective narrator. His voice fairly soothes and begs us to listen. And, when playing a comic character, his timing is always right on the dot. He never misses a laugh.

Rich Snyder is also comical as the helpless Sundance Kid to a portrayal of a gambling preacher. Although Snyder over-reacted in his portrayal of Billy the Kid, his later characters appeared much more dynamic as he began to relax.

Marke Fenske has a face that adapts to any character he plays — whether it be the young Ford brother who kills Jesse James to the somber and weary Ed, a frontiersman who loses wife and child.

The only female in the performance, Mary Mikva, is both forceful and subtle. Her degree of adaptability ranges from a tough frontier woman to a loose saloon girl.

"COWBOY" IS a unique show packed with precision and imagination that makes you want to remember a few of your own childhood dreams.

HARASSED OWNER of ambulance company, Harry (Alan Garfield) goes over his records with Speed (Harvey Keitel) and Jugs (Raquel Welch) in wacky comedy, "Mother, Jugs and Speed." Bill Cosby stars as Mother, top driver for the struggling firm.

'Mother' may work better next time

by DAVID DUGAS
(A review)

Hollywood often errs by remaking past hits, hoping lightning will strike twice. Remaking flops, with the benefit of hindsight, would make more sense. And a perfect candidate is "Mother, Jugs and Speed," a comedy failure that nevertheless has an original plot and a number of funny ideas that might work better next time.

Bill Cosby (Mother) is the top driver for a private and near-bankrupt Los Angeles ambulance company, Raquel Welch (Jugs, need you ask) is the receptionist who wants to get behind the wheel herself, and Harvey Keitel (Speed) is a suspended cop hired by the outfit's harassed owner, Allen Garfield.

Director Peter Yates keeps the action, sight gags and jokes flying furiously for about an hour. Then seriousness intrudes and wrecks the wacky mood.

THERE IS THE sketchy romance between Welch and Keitel, the slaying of driver Bruce Davison by a crazed woman, another woman's death in childbirth, and finally the unexpected psychotic fireworks of another driver, Larry Hagman.

In its favor, "Mother, Jugs and Speed" is expertly produced and provides a richly atmospheric look at Los Angeles while poking fun at the current cliches of such TV series of "Emergency" and "S.W.A.T."

Performances generally are good, right down to the briefest uncredited bits, with the exceptions of Garfield, who overacts outrageously, and Welch, whose dramatic shortcomings include crying out of sync.

The picture, from 20th Century-Fox, is rated (PG) and is currently playing in the area.

'Sailor' falls from grace with sea, audience too

by DAVID DUGAS
(A review)

Sarah Miles is one of the more interesting actresses around but you'd never guess it from watching her in "The Sailor Who Fell From Grace With the Sea."

Filmed in the picturesque English port of Dartmouth, it casts Miles as a widow enraptured by an itinerant American merchant marine officer, played by Kris Kristofferson as if he were posing for a record jacket.

Naturally she's upset by learning their steamy love scenes in her bedroom have been viewed through a peephole by her pubescent son.

WAIT UNTIL SHE finds out the boy (Jonathan Kahn) is in the power of a classmate (Earl Rhodes) who directs his followers in such prankish diversions as carving up the school cat and, for the finale, a ritual murder. His commands spit out as if he were doing Bette Davis as Baby Jane.

Even with countless views of the sea, prettily photographed by Douglas Slocombe, it is all very unconvincing and nasty.

American screenwriter Lewis John Carlino, making his debut as a film director, credits his inspiration for the script to a story by Yukio Mashima, the celebrated Japanese author whose hara-kiri suicide in 1970 was widely publicized.

AVCO EMBASSY Pictures is distributing "Sailor" which is rated (R).

Would you believe good wine could cost $6,000?

by CYRIL GUERRERA

Sophisticated wine connoisseurs speak with awe about Chateau Lafite-Rothschild and Bin 110 Madeira. Those not so knowledgeable are awed merely by the price tags of up to $6,000 a bottle.

These two examples of vintage wine — and other wines of equal renown — were major attractions at the recent annual Heublein national auction of rare wines, the United States' foremost wine auction.

MORE THAN 500 restaurant owners, wine merchants and private collectors attended the auction in hopes of acquiring an elusive bottle or so of some of the world's most exquisite wines.

Even at high prices, Heublein expert Alexander C. McNally said, many buyers eventually would open and enjoy their prizes.

"I've often heard it said, 'Leave your money to your heirs, but drink your wine yourself,'" he said. "Drinking a rare wine is an experience. It is unique and personal."

Some of the bidders sampled a variety of the wines at a tasting party where more than 100 bottles of moderately priced vintages were opened.

THEY ALSO TRIED several bottles of more expensive varieties — such as Chateau Montrose 1896, Heyer Madeira 1815 and Beaulieu Vinyard Cabernet believed to have been bottled about 1916.

A bottle of Chateau Lafite-Rothschild 1908, valued at up to $125 a bottle, drew raves.

"It's fabulous," said restaurant owner Justine Smith of Memphis, Tenn. "The color is the best I've ever seen."

Some of the more prized American wines included in the auction were the 1943 and 1944 California Napa Valley, priced at up to $50 a bottle.

"Much of what we make in California is far better than we once gave it credit for," said McNally.

In addition, wines from Germany, Hungary and Portugal were offered.

Lake productions begin

Theater on the Lake begins its 24th season Tuesday evening and will continue through Sept. 4 at Fullerton Avenue and the Outer Drive, Chicago.

The plays are the best works produced during the Chicago Park District's winter drama season and are performed by park idstrict theater groups.

The first play of the season, running June 15-19, is "Once Upon A Mattress" by the Indian Boundary Players. A local girl, Eileen Tiagari of Des Plaines, is a member of the cast.

OTHER PRODUCTIONS are June 22-26, "Another Part of the Forest;" June 2-July 3, "The Little Foxes;" July 6-10, "The Real Inspector Hound;" July 13-17, "Twigs;" July 20-24, "Veronica's Room;" July 27-31, "Dirty Work at the Crossroads."

Also, Aug. 3-7, "The Mousetrap;" Aug. 10-14, "Hot L Baltimore;" Aug. 17-21, "The Sunshine Boys;" Aug. 24-28, "Toys in the Attic;" and Aug. 31-Sept. 4, "1776."

Admission is $1.50. After Monday, advance tickets may be obtained by calling the theater box office, 348-7075.

Faire calls for performers

On behalf of King Richard's Fourth Chicago Faire (formerly the Renaissance Faire), King Richard himself has issued a proclamation calling for artisans, craftsmen, minstrels, jugglers, dancers and actors.

The 1976 Faire will take place over five consecutive weekends beginning the holiday weekend of July 3, 4, 5, and continuing on Saturdays and Sundays, July 10-11, July 11-18, July 25-26, and climaxing the weekend of July 31-Aug. 1.

Potential participants are reminded that King Richard's Fourth Chicago Faire is an authentic recreation of the good olde days in the glades of Merrie England — a period 400 years ago. Performers and exhibitors must be in appropriate costume, and their particular craft or theatrics must be appropriate to that period of time.

Participants in visual arts should contact Lord Rob Rogers, 1221 N. Dearborn Pkwy., Chicago, Ill. 60610, phone 337-7220; for performing arts, Lady Meredith Hermanek, 525-4777.

Seafood spot fills you to the gills

If you tend to judge restaurants by their gradiose exteriors, you might drive right past the Fulton St. Fishery & Market, 604 N. Milwaukee Ave., in Wheeling.

It replaced Johnny's Fireside about six months ago and although it might still look like a "Johnny's" on the outside, inside it's something altogether different.

Decorated in turn-of-the-century motif, the restaurant's atmosphere is relaxed, almost homey. The waiting area resembles an old-fashioned store. While browsing, take notice of the freshly caught specials posted daily.

Featuring:
Fulton St. Market

A stop at Sally's Saloon — a comfortable bar loaded with antiques — will help make waiting for a table slip by.

Fulton St. has one large room, subdivided by a partial wall, and a smaller room separated from the bar by a huge garage door.

NO MATTER WHERE you're seated in this intimate (it seats approximately 175 people) seafood spot, you have to be impressed with the young, eager-to-please waiters and waitresses. This is one place where tips are earned.

And, you'll never want for seasoning. Each table is supplied with a large Morton salt box, a huge can of black pepper and a two-pound box of sugar!

A bread cart was wheeled to our table first, featuring sweet and herb butter. Warning — resist the temptation to eat more than one slice for the feast is yet to come.

From the brown paper menus, which diners are free to take home, we chose two of the four appetizers offered — Fulton chowder pot, $1.25, and mess of mussels and steamers, $2.50. Each serving was more than ample. The chowder was especially good.

A SALAD CART was pushed our way loaded with lettuce, several dressings and all the traditional condiments. The mild and creamy house dressing proved a pleasant surprise and added just the right flavoring to the greens.

From a fine assortment of entrees, we chose stuffed brook trout, $6.23; clam bake, market price $11.25; broiled seafood platter, $8.98; and broiled lobster tails, market price $11.25.

Our "trout tryer" caught an exceptionally good main course. Stuffed with crab meat, shrimp and bread crumbs and topped with almondine, the trout had her raving and offering to give everyone "a taste."

The clam bake proved the most interesting of the main dishes. The whole lobster, shrimp, steamers, mussels, yams, corn on the cob and chicken came wrapped in one huge tinfoil ball.

TAKING ONE ITEM out at a time and then rewrapping the foil kept this "net full" warm.

None of the fresh specials the night we dined appealed to us. The list included red snapper, $7.50; smelts, $5.75; lake trout, $6.95; and monk fish, $6.75.

Somehow, the party seated next to us still found room for Fulton St.'s dessert specialty — the "Kitchen Sink." A portable sink, complete with faucets, is built on a stand. The dessert — a concoction of calories — is served on a tray that fits into the sink. It's unique . . . and apparently delicious. But that's all I'll give away.

Even though it's only been open a few months, word has spread on the restaurant's excellence. Fulton St. has become so popular you must make reservations days, even weeks, in advance for prime dining time on weekends.

One more warning — starve yourself all day. Chances are you'll leave filled to the gills with a doggy bag in hand.

Guilda awards honor top DPTG actors, technicians

Guildas for top acting and technical achievement climaxed Des Plaines Theatre Guild's fourth annual awards banquet Saturday evening at the Sheraton O'Hare North.

The cast of three in the January production of "The Subject Was Roses" captured three of the top acting awards. John Schile Jr., Rosemont was named best actor; Dave Elvart, Northbrook, best supporting actor; and A. J. Riegler, Des Plaines, best actress.

"The Subject Was Roses" was a winner in two other categories, best set design by Bill Shadinger, Des Plaines, and best set furnishings and properties by Dori Strong, Glenview, and Fran Pitchford, Arlington Heights.

Three other Guildas went to cast members of the musical "Where's Charley?" which opened the season at Guild Playhouse in September. Jim Beddia, Buffalo Grove, was chosen best character actor; Paula Unell, Glenview, won best character actress; Jeanne Haight, Hawthorne Woods, tied with Lucy Brodzik Klein, former Mount Prospect resident, for best supporting actress honors. Lucy's Guilda was for her role in "The Great Sebastians."

In the technical categories other winners were Marshall Kievit, Des Plaines, for best lighting design in "Jacques Brel . . ."; Erv Busse, Des Plaines, best sound design for "The Great Sebastians," and Arlette Dawson, Des Plaines, best costumes for "Where's Charley?"

Named best over-all production of the season was the final musical, "Jacques Brel Is Alive and Well and Living In Paris" with Guildas going to Marv Unell, producer, and Lynn Jessen, Arlington Heights, director.

Special Guildas were awarded Joel and Maxine Cohen, Niles, for their service to the guild as directors of the Children's Theatre Workshop and for their two productions, "The Trial of Mother Goose" featuring the youngsters 12 and under and a musical review by the teenagers.

Also honored was Paula Unell as director of Cabaret Theatre, and Judy Castaldi, Deerfield, director of last summer's production, "Spoon River Anthology."

Merton Staley, Rolling Meadows, recipient of the Joe McDermott Memorial award in 1975, presented the gold Guilda this year to Marv Unell.

Appearing in scenes from the season just ended were Marshall Kievit, Harold LeBoyer, and Chris Gyssler from "Spoon River Anthology"; Jeanne Haight, Jim Beddia, Paula Unell and Bob Heinzen singing from "Where's Charley?", Joel Cohen and Karen Mason with numbers from "Jacques Brel . . ." and Betty Kandlbinder, Hank Vandenboom, Joel Cohen, John Schile and Ed Sauer recreating a scene from "The Great Sebastians."

A lot of comedy for little money

Night out

by Genie Campbell

Getting your money's worth of entertainment today is as difficult as buying a sack of groceries for under $5. Prices come high these days — tickets not withstanding.

For the cost of a couple drinks, however, ALLGAUER'S FIRESIDE in Northbrook is providing a marathon of comedy Monday nights, featuring the CHICAGO HYSTERICAL SOCIETY. They consider, of course, having a stage on which to perform the best possible fee they could charge.

From 9 p.m. to midnight — bathroom breaks are on your own — six standup comedians take turns clowning and entertaining during 20-minute individual intervals of skits, impersonations, satire and even some pretty decent sound effects.

Their background is as diverse as their routines, from Qld Chicago and college engagements to the Playboy Club, Mr. Kelly's and Second City.

Some need more polish, sleeker stuff and even a haircut. But there is more than enough good material to make up for the jokes that don't go over. And how else are they going to find out?

How else will you see an elephant on a finger, experience the mating call of a clam, or receive an entire expose on sneezes?

Having helped organize and currently taking charge of the group is KEN SMITH who would give many established comedians a real run for their money. He is exceptionally good at impersonating Len O'Connor, Jack Brickhouse and Johnny Carson.

Another favorite was JAMES WESLEY JACKSON, a walking denim masterpiece who bills himself as a cross between an environmentalist and comedian or "enviromedian." "Didn't you know a naked body is just nature's way of saying hi?"

Also on stage Monday night was JIMMY WHIG, WAYNE JUHLIN of WFYR who presented his usual spoof on Mayor Daley, TED HOLUM and ED FIALA.

Other members of the Chicago Hysterical Society who will be taking their turns on future Mondays are PENNY LANE, also of WFYR, JUDY TENUTA and BOB RUMBAUGH.

Acting as MC for the kickoff was JERRY BISHOP host of WMAQ's "Chicago Camera."

Allgauer's is experimenting with this comedy night as a possible deviation from its regularly booked combos. And judging from the packed lounge opening night, the Hysterical Society will have no trouble extending its welcome. Even now it's booked for at least six weeks.

THE ARLINGTON HEIGHTS PARK DISTRICT, in conjunction with COUNTRY CLUB COMEDY THEATRE, is presenting the ALPHA OMEGA PLAYERS in "HEROS AND HARD CASES," a Bicentennial comedy in honor of Flag Day Monday. It will be staged at Old Orchard Country Club.

The general style of "Heroes and Hard Cases" is that of a comedy revue with Uncle Sam acting as master of ceremonies. About the people who made the country, the great and small alike, the losers as well as the winners, the production has been assembled from a wide variety of source material including folk songs, legends, history texts and biographies. All proceeds will go to the Arlington Heights Park District which has tickets on sale. Information, 398-3370.

The Alpha Omega Players are touring the show throughout the country.

ALLAN FELIX (Kent Monken) is consoled by his best friends the Christies (Barbara McGreevy and Rick Snyder) in Woody Allen's slapstick comedy, "Play It Again Sam" now at Country Club Comedy Theatre in Mount Prospect.

Old Town art fair opens

Called the oldest juried outdoor art fair in the country, Chicago's 27th annual Old Town Art Fair is Saturday and Sunday on both sides of the 1800 block of Orleans Street and Lincoln Park West as well as adjacent Menominee Street and North Park Avenue.

Participating this year are 178 artists including 24 new exhibitors. They will be displaying a variety of media — oils, acrylics, watercolors, textiles, glass, jewelry, ceramics, etchings, film and sculpture.

Gardens and patios in the fair will be open for viewing throughout the weekend.

OTHER FEATURES include food concessions, a book stall with new and used books for sale, and a puppet show, "The Lilliput Review."

From 2 p.m. until dark both days, works donated by exhibiting artists will be sold at a celebrity auction at the north end of the Lincoln Park West exhibiting area.

Profits netted from the Old Town Art Fair support neighborhood organizations.

Drum Corps champions to compete

Eleven Drum and Bugle Corps organizations will compete in the sixth annual Parade of Champions Sunday, June 20, at 7 p.m. at Wheeling High School Stadium.

The Cavaliers, Fox Valley Raiders, Guardsmen, Kilts, Marquis, Phantom Regiment, Pioneers, Scarlet Knights and 27th Lancers will all be appearing in this Bicentennial salute.

Tickets for the competition are $4.50 for reserved seats in the center of the stadium, concert side; general admission $2.50 adults, $1.50 children under 12. They are available at CMI Studios, 271 E. Dundee; Wheeling Trust & Savings Bank and Wheeling Park District office. Mail orders can be addressed to Drum Corps Show, P.O. Box 463, Wheeling, Ill., 60090. Information, 537-0728.

Art Guild names new officers

Arlington Heights Art Guild recently introduced its slate of officers for the 1976-77 season. They are Arlyn Miner, president; Hazel Herter, vice president; Helen March, second vice president; Leslie Williams, recording secretary; Betty Borgeson, corresponding secretary; and Pat Grapenthin, treasurer.

Top winners in the Guild's May art and craft fair judged by Thomas Lynch and Joseph Burlini, both of Arlington Heights, were: Dorothy Kruse, best of show; Charles Miner, first place in oil and acrylic; Alan Yau, first in watercolor; Vicki Locascio, first in sculpture; and James Gitter, first in crafts.

The doctor says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Bowel habit changes can signal cancer

Dear Dr. Lamb — For the last 20 years the doctors said I had a spastic colon and kept me on a very bland diet. This affected by bowel movements and I had to take enemas and put up with a lot of pain. I never had a natural bowel movement until I read your article about eating the bulk foods and cereals and breads made of bran or whole wheat.

You stated if one coul stand the gas for three weeks she coud overcome the problem. Well at this point I was willing to try anything and believe me it worked beautifully and all my pains disappeared. I felt like a new woman. I even stopped taking my nerve pills.

This continued for a whole month and then all of a sudden for two days I didn't have a bowel movement. Dumb me, I took a laxative I got frolm dthe health food store. I took two tablets with no results and then next day two more.

That day I had seven movements and the last two were filled with blood. This continued for about three days and then my stomach was real nervous so I thought I had ulcers. I've had them before. So I went back to my nerve pills and took a small amount of Mylanta which seemed to help some and it seemed to flush out what looked like dried blood. I do feel better, but still have some pain in my right side. I would like to stick to your bulk diet. What do you think happened? Where could the blood have come from? It's not from the hemorrhoids.

Dear Reader — The first point I want to make is that anyone with a significant change in bowel habit for no known reason should see a doctor. Your sudden constipation after having normal functions for a month is edfinitely a change. Why see a doctor? Because sudden changes in bowel habits for no good reason can mean cancer of the colon. Do you realize that cancer of the colon and rectum is the second most common cause of death from cancer in both men and women?

The second point is that you should never resort to harsh laxatives. It is entirely possible that the strong chemicals in the laxative irritated your colon so badly hat it caused he bleeding. Those forceful contractions are damaging. Whether or not that is so, anyone who has bleeding in his bowel movements that is not explained must see a doctor at once. That too can be a sign of cancer of the colon.

I AM GLAD the bulk diet helped. It is too bad you didn't have such a program years ago. Some investigators think that bulk diets that straighten out spastic colon problems may help prevent cancer of the colon. I don't think your bulk diet had a thing to do with your sudden attack of constipation and the complications you had after taking a harsh laxative.

The bowel program for a person with a spastic colon includes more than just using a bulk diet. I am sending you a copy of The Health Letter number 2-1, Irritable or Spastic Colon and Constipation. Others who want this information can forward 50 cents and a long, stamped self-addressed envelope for mailing. Address your letter to me in care of Paddock Publications, P. O. Box 1441, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

If you have not seen your doctor yet see him without delay. For the rest of my readers please remember that if you have a change of bowel habit it can be a sign of cancer. If you bleed don't try to diagnose it yourself, see your doctor without delay.

Crude oil, soap, wax restores old cabinet

Dear Dorothy: I've got a real treasure stored in the basement if only it could be made to look as it did originally — a beautiful wooden radio cabinet circa 1929. Is there anything that can be done to the gray-green film that covers the surface of the wood? —Mrs. Raymond Trayer.

There is only one way to get off the combination of the fumes, dust, dampness and old waxes. Brush the surface (but don't touch the fabric if there is any) with some crude oil. Any kind of crude, the cheaper the better. Then wipe it off. Let it sit 24 hours, then wash the surface with a solution of the pure white household soap, rinse, then dry. After that, use a good cream wax — not one of the spray waxes. If the wood was good to start with, you've got a chance of producing a handsome "antique."

Dear Dorothy: Here's a simple one for a dinner meal. Make up your favorite meat loaf from a pound of ground beef and divide it into five or six portions. Flatten each one between your hands to almost saucer-size and place on an ungreased baking sheet. Bake for 20 minutes, uncovered, in a 350-degree oven. They're delicious and go well with all the trimmings. And since they shrink, they fit beautifully in a hamburger bun if anyone in the family wants them that way. What's more, they freeze perfectly.—Mrs. C. W. Holtsman.

Dear Dorothy: I've discovered that a plant that has seemingly died may survive if put in a cool, dark area and watered just occasionally. In a few months, new leaves appear and it's ready for warmth and sunlight again. I've gotten big, beautifu planlts from just a stick in the ground this way.—Clare Barton.

Andy sends the Encyclopaedia Britannica's 1976 Yearbook of Science and the Future to Susan Colaianni, 10, of Charlotte, N.C., for her question:

IS JAPAN AN ISLAND?

Mount Fuji, looking like a huge inverted fan, is the symbol of Japan. An inactive volcano that last erupted in 1707, it rises 12,388 feet above sea level and is Japan's highest and most famous peak. In the days of sailing ships, long before air transportation, it was one of the first sights a foreign visitor saw upon entering the post of Yokohama.

Japan is an island country located in the Pacific Ocean. It consists of not one but four large islands and some 3,000 smaller ones. If the four larger islands were placed along the eastern coast of the United States, they would stretch from Maine to Florida. Japan's total land area, however, is about equal to the area of the state of Montana.

On a map of the world, Japan can be found just off the eastern coast of the continent of Asia. Its islands form a rough outline of a dragon with the largest island of Honshu being the dragon's body, while the next largest island of Hokkaido forms the dragon's head. The smaller islands of Kyushu and Shikoku form the hindquarters of our imaginary dragon.

The landscape of Japan varies widely, but about 85 per cent of the land is covered with mountains and hills. The mountains run like a backbone down all the islands. Their majesty contributes to the beauty of Japan's landscape. Because they take up a great deal of land area, however, the coastal areas are quite crowded. In fact, Tokyo, Japan's capital, is the second largest city in the world, with a population of more than 9 million.

Japan is not well-endowed with natural resources. To meet their industrial needs many minerals must be imported. Perhaps the greatest resource the country has is its skillful and hard-working people. Only about one-seventh of the land is suitable for farming, yet farmers manage to grow crops in every conceivable location.

Green forests cover much of Japan's landscape. Cedars, oaks, maples and pines have elevated Japan to one of the world's leaders in wood pulp and paper products. Bamboo, which can be found throughout the islands, is very important to the Japanese people. They use the tender bamboo shoots for food and the sturdy poles as building material. Mulberry trees are raised to feed the growing larva of the silkworm moth which contributes the threads of its cocoon for beautiful silk fabric.

Many of Japan's products are exported to other countries. The U.S. for example, buys automobiles, motorcycles, radios, cameras, television sets and many other goods from Japan. In turn, Japan purchases products such as coal, soybeans and wheat from the United States.

Andy sends a Student Globe to Rosemary Arroyave, 9, of St. Catharines, Ont., Canada, for her question:

DOES THE KANGAROO RAT HAVE A POUCH?

No, this cute little rodent does not have a pouch. But, like a kangaroo, he has powerful hind legs which enable him to sit up and survey the scenery and execute long six-to eight-foot hops as he darts from one juicy tuber to the next. Active at night in his home in the desert or plains, he passes the daylight hours in his underground burrows.

Although the kangaroo rat is about a foot long, his tail takes up more than half this length. He uses his tail, which is tipped with a large, feather-like brush, to maintain his balance while he hops about. The tubers he eats provide him with all the liquids he needs, and throughout his two-year life span he never drinks a drop of water. He also savors seeds. These he collects, in tremendous quantities, stuffing them into his cheek pouches. It is not uncommon for the rodent to horde up to 50 quarts of seeds in his underground pantry.

Radio, TV news – a big difference

by JOAN HANAUER

NEW YORK (UPI) — NBC radio news has a split personality.

There are 200-plus radio stations that depend on NBC Radio News for standard five-minute newscasts every hour. For the last year there also has been NIS — 24-hour-a-day, seven-day-a-week News and Information Service — a separate operation that started off with 27 stations that wanted to go all news.

At the end of NIS' first year of operation, there were 62 stations, with 10 others signed up, and an audience of about 4.7 million persons who listen to NIS in the course of a week throughout the country.

"RADIO NEWS is considerably different from television news," said James L. Holton, vice president, NBC Radio News.

"We have given up the attempt to use reporters in the field, who are really serving two masters. In my experience, it won't work to have guys who are essentially covering an event with a film crew also covering for radio.

"In the past, network radio depended on these guys, but if we are going to feed this monster, which is all news and requires a tremendous amount of material, and special material, we need reporters who don't have to worry about the kind of picture they're getting and a lot of technical film detail."

On either the five-minute news or NIS, the standard spot report from the field is 30 seconds, and often the same spot is used in both services. The difference is that on NIS, the reporter may go on to do as much as five minutes of two-way conversation with a New York-based anchorman.

NIS and NBC Radio News hope to set up more bureaus — NBC Radio has reporters throughout the world but few operational offices to work out of. Most wanted bureaus includes a sizable organization for Los Angeles, and a bureau in either Tokyo or Hong Kong to handle the Far East the way NBC's London bureau coordinates operations for Europe and the Middle East.

British pair show courage

The English pair of Rose and Forro took the early lead at the Cavendish invitational, only to falter in the stretch and fall back to seventh. Here is one of the hands that helped them off to their good start.

American pairs tend not to make a takeout double with too much strength in the opponent's bid suit, but the British double with all good hands, so Rose doubled West's heart opening bid. East adopted the rather doubtful strategy of leaping to four hearts to try to shut out the spade suit, but Forro did not cross the Atlantic Ocean to be shut out of the bidding. With the spirit that Nelson showed at Trafalgar and Wellington at Waterloo, he bid four spades.

Win at bridge

by Oswald and Jim Jacoby

Rose went right to six and there was no defense against the contract.

West led his ace of diamonds. Forro ruffed in dummy and led a trump to his queen. West held back his ace, but Forro simply led a second trump. West took his ace this time and led out his last trump, but Forro just claimed with the announcement, "I throw my last three diamones on the long clubs."

63-year-old Oscar in hospital

Ill and alone, his future's unsure

Today

Mike Klein's people

Oscar Maegli, the old man who has lived these past 18 years at the old Roy Lichter farm on Schoenbeck Road in Wheeling was hospitlized more than two weeks ago after suffering conestive heart failure.

Almost nobody knew until this week. People cared, but they did not know. That is one sad fact about the linely life that Oscar, and so many elderly, are forced to lead today.

"Roy felt he should take care of him, sort of like a father, because Oscar has nobody," Mrs. Roy Lichter said this week. "He said Oscar should stay as long as he lived."

But the Lichter family did not know until this week that Oscar has been very ill.

Neither did David S. Phillips, superintendent of the Wheeling Park District, which last year purchased the 10-acre site from Lichter's estate.

PHILLIPS HAS been very good about checking on Oscar. He is genuinely concerned.But Phillips did not know until late Monday afternoon.

Oscar is 63 years old. Even on the best days, he fights many hardships. His feet always hurt. They swell and Oscar usually walks on painful feet. He walks slowly.

Social security checks give Oscar money to pay his rent, buy food and clothes and feed the eight cats who live in a shed near Oscar's little house.

Each day is a struggle. Mostly, Oscar just watches television and listens to the radio.

He was very ill once before, about two years ago. Oscar stayed then at Holy Family Hospital in Des Plaines.

HIS CONGESTIVE heart failure occurred Tuesday afternoon, May 25, and Oscar can thank a sixth-grade girl from Carl Sandburg School who came to his rescue.

As Oscar told Ray Lichter, he had been having discomfort since 1 a.m., Tuesday, or for nearly 15 hours. But he was not strong enough to seek help.

School was dismissed and Paulette Kwatic was enroute home when a man, Oscar, yelled for her help. Oscar had managed to reach the roadway.

Paulette ran back to her school. "She said there was a man who called for an ambulance," Phyllis Wirth, a Carl Sandburg staff member explained.

Phyllis telephoned the Wheeling Police Dept. while two Sandburg teachers, Randall Ashley and Pat Connelly, went to his aid.

Patrolman Dexter Gorski arrived and requested paramedics, who transported Oscar to Holy Family Hospital shortly before 4 p.m. He was admitted to the coronary-care unit.

OSCAR'S CONDITION this week was listed as "stable," which means that he is not better or worse. He will need a long recovery period.

Oscar was not quickly missed by anyone. He mostly has stayed to himself on the Lichter farm. Few people ever visit Oscar.

Phillips tried to see Oscar twice last week, when he already had been hospitalized for one week.

Phillips called inside Oscar's house and got no answer, but did not think anything of it. He thought Oscar went to visit someone.

OSCAR MAEGLI

Oscar's mailman is Ron Barman, who noticed that Oscar had not cleaned his mailbox in many days.

He knew that Oscar is an older man, and he thought something might e wrong. Barman reported those facts to his supervisor.

THE POST OFFICE called Wheeling police. Sgt. Bill Ralston and a second policeman were dispatched to the Lichter farm shortly before 1:25 p.m. Monday.

Mention of that search reached The Herald newsroom. I drove to Oscar's house, but found no one.

Oscar clearly had not been home for a long while. No food or water had been left for Oscar's eight cats. They also were missing.

After many phone calls, Oscar was found in Room 371 at Holy Family Hospital. He did not feel well enough to talk.

I notified Mrs. Roy Lichter, who lives in Chicago, and her son, Ray, who visited Oscar Wednesday evening.

OSCAR'S FUTURE is uncertain. Nobody knows when Oscar will go home. He may be transferred to a Veteran's Administration hospital.

Even though many people seemed to care, nobody knew about Oscar for nearly two weeks. He was just another old man in the hospital.

Thankfully, sixth grader Paulette Kwatic heard his plea and ran for help.

Meadows, Arlington top all-conference

Four players each from division champions Rolling Meadows and Arlington head up the Mid-Suburban League all-conference baseball team, selected by the league's coaches and announced this week.

Eight of the 26 selections were unanimous, including three of Arlington's North-division champs — junior hurler John Mertins and outfielders Matt Splitt and junior Mike Mayerck. The Cardinals' fourth choice was catcher Don Stebbins.

League champion Rolling Meadows, which defeated Arlington in the title series, placed two unanimous selections among its quartet of all-star players: pitcher John Igrasek and infielder Paul Marsillo. Junior pitcher Dennis Drolet and infielder Guy Tenute rounded out the Mustangs' picks.

In all, nine juniors and one sophomore made the prestigious squad, chosen annually by a poll of the league coaches. Four of the six pitchers and three of the eight infielders chosen were underclassmen.

The other unanimous choices were Wheeling pitcher Keith Pecka, Hersey first baseman Tom Barnard, and Fremd junior slugger Kerry Field.

Marsillo and Barnard finished the league campaign tied for the conference batting title with identical .472 averages, each with 25 hits and 53 at-bats. Barnard was third and Marsillo fifth in slugging, and the Meadows shortstop also led the league in stolen bases with 18.

Mertins and Igrasek were among the loop's top hurlers. The Cardinal junior posted an over-all mark of 11-0 with an ERA of 0.83, and Igrasek was 7-3 with 1.18.

The rest of the all-conference team includes Buffalo Grove soph Mike Marshall and teammates Mike Ledna and Steve Chobanian, Wheeling's Glenn Barry and Bob Terreberry, Hoffman Estates' Randy Brown and Ray Gowron, Hersey's Mark Knuttle, Forest View's Larry Dahl and Jim Petran, Elk Grove's Bob Ray and Tom Curran, Schaumburg's Terry Zarbock, Palatine's Dan McSweeney, and Prospect's Mike Crnich.

Marshall, the Bison's super soph, had some of the league's most impressive credentials. Named to the team as a first baseman, he batted .365 and led the league in RBIs with 27, home runs with four, and slugging percentage with a lusty .769. Marshall also tied Bernard for the league lead in doubles with seven.

Aside from his htting abilities, Marshall showed he was a capable moundsman with a 9-1 over-all record, a 1.11 ERA, and 66 strikeouts in 57 MSL innings.

Gowron, Hoffman Estates' strong-armed junior righthander, led the league in strikeouts with 74 while topping the loop's hurlers in innings pitched (65 2/3).

Buffalo Grove's Chobanian, who has played outfield, third base and catcher in his three varsity seasons, finished second in the league in hitting (.455) and slugging (.764) and paced the MSL in triples with four.

Chobanian's teammate, junior shortstop Mike Ledna, led the conference in runs scored with 23 and knocked in 15 runs from his leadoff spot in the Bison lineup.

In addition to the team's six pitchers, eight infielders, four catchers and six outfielders, the coaches selected two players — McSweeney and Petran — as designated hitters.

Herald honors prep track stars

by BOB FRISK
Sports Editor

The beauty of track and field always has been its simplicity.

One need not understand, for there is nothing to understand.

They race and he who gets there first is the winner. Honors go to the swiftest, the strongest.

Give this sport a chance and it can be just as thrilling as any other in the school program.

When Illinois annually stages its state track and field finals in May, a spectacular show is guaranteed. This is the culmination of preparation started when the calendar said it was spring, but it was not and they labored in the cold and the wet.

The state's best assembled in Charleston, Ill. May 28-29 and put on quite a show once again. The 1976 finals survived an opening day of rain and developed into another classy exhibition of skill by these Illinois teenagers, the youngsters honored today by The Herald newspapers.

The 21st Annual All-State Track and Field team recognizes the incredible young talent in a state loaded with fine performers.

A "best ever" tag is attached every year to the All-State team, and this 21st edition released today is no exception.

Greg Foster, Steve Schellenberger, Ron Craker, Steve Safranski, Lamar Pickett, Ed Tate, John Powers . . . they all helped make this 1976 season a memorable one. But there were others.

The All-State squad honors the top performers in each individual event regardless of class affiliation. Safranski of Granville Putnam County is an All-Stater in three events.

Placing in the state meet is not a prerequisite for selection. Craker of York, for example fell on the fifth lap of the two mile run and didn't place but still ranks as the class of the state field for 1976.

State points, achieved under tremendous pressure, obviously are important in any consideration, but many factors are evaluated. The number of boys selected in each event varies according to the over-all strength of the field.

Each All-Stater receives a handsome certificate suitable for framing.

100-YARD DASH

Cardenal shakes slump, Cubs win

by DON FRISKE

Jose Cardenal broke out of his own personal batting slump with three extra-base hits Thursday to help the Chicago Cubs break free from a six-game losing streak with a 7-6 win over the Atlanta Braves.

It looked as though it was going to be another dismal day for Cardenal when he hit into a double play in the first inning. The Braves already led 1-0 as Rowland Office opened the game with a double, went to third on a groundout and scored on a sacrifice fly.

Office's double extended his hitting streak to 15 consecutive games.

But Cardenal, with only one hit in his previous 22 at-bats, joined the hit parade himself when he batted in the third.

The first thing he noticed when he came to the plate was the broken mask of Braves' catcher Earl Williams. He promptly pointed it out to Williams.

"I was afraid I might hit a foul tip into the mask," Cardenal said.

The only thing Cardenal hit was a home run into the eighth row of the right field bleachers. He picked Dick Ruthven's first pitch and sent it sailing off with the wind, which was blowing out at about 25 miles per hour.

It gave the Cubs a 2-1 lead, but the Braves quickly took control again when Ken Henderson and Williams hit back-to-back home runs in the third. Another run was added in the fourth, courtesy of a Cub error, and the Braves were ahead 4-2.

Rick Monday tied the game with his eleventh home run of the season, which started a five-run fifth inning for the Cubs.

Cardenal followed Monday's shot with a triple into the right field corner and then his daring baserunning, which he called a gamble, gave the Cubs the lead for good.

Cardenal started for home as soon as Braves' shortstop Darrel Chaney motioned to throw to first on Bill Madlock's groundout. As Cardenal pointed out after the game, if Chaney had only been faking a throw to first he would have been out easily because he had committed himself.

"It was a gamble, but if wait you're going to be out," he said. "If Chaney fakes it, I'm dead.

"But the way we've been playing, you have to take a chance. You have to play aggressive and try to make things happen."

Cardenal scored and things did happen.

Jerry Morales followed with a single and came home fromfirst on Pete LaCock's double. Steve Swisher's single sent LaCock in with the run that eventually decided the game.

Steve Renko, The Cubs' starting pitcher, was working with a 7-4 lead in the seventh when Chaney smashed a 2-1 pitch deep into the right field bleachers. It was only Chaney's eighth career home run, the first of this season.

Renko lasted until the eighth when he gave up an infield hit to Office with one out. Bruce Sutter replaced him, but he made a quick exit after Jimmy Wynn collected a double.

Oscar Zamora pitched the remainder of the game for the Cubs, allowing just one hit to earn his third save of the season.

Cardenal, who added a double in the sixth, said he was tired and has been since the start of the last road trip. He is the only Cub to have played in every game this year.

"Every year about this time, in June, I get a little bit tired," he said. "I'm tired now, but I always come back strong in July."

If Thursday is any indication, July may have come early this year for the Cubs' left fielder.

Good news for Orr's knee

Bobby Orr — just signed to a multi-million dollar contract with the Chicago Black Hawks — will play hockey in the fall, Toronto doctors said Thursday after examining the knee that has plagued the superstar's hockey career.

"We feel with considerable work with the muscles of the leg over the next few months, he will be ready to play hockey in the fall," Dr. John Palmer said in a statement after the examination.

Palmer, head of general surgery at Toronto General Hospital, conducted an orthoscopic examination of Orr's left knee Thursday morning, only hours after Orr agreed to join the Black Hawks.

According to a hospital spokesman the examination took about 30 minutes using a procedure allowing a visual examination of the inside of the knee.

The spokesman said Orr's physicians decided on the basis of the examination Orr's knee would not have to be operated on for what would have been a sixth time.

McGinnis makes NBA star team

George McGinnis of Philadelphia made the National Basketball Association All-Star team in his first year and Rick Barry of Golden State was voted to the elite squad Thursday for the fifth time in six NBA seasons.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar of Los Angeles was picked as the first team center by writers and broadcasters covering the 18 teams, while Nate Archibald of Kansas City and Pete Maravich of New Orleans were voted into the starting guard positions.

McGinnis arrived in the NBA an established star. He made his pro name with the Indiana Pacers in the American Basketball Association.

Riggins signs with Skins

George Allen scored another coup for the Washington Redskins Thursday by signing running star John Riggins to a contract believed to approach $1.5 million for five years.

Riggins, who rushed for more than 1,000 yards for the New York Jets last season, played out his option and became a free agent on May 1. He was the third star player Allen has obtained as a free agent in the off-season.

Earlier, he signed Calvin Hill, who twice rushed for more than 1,000-yards for the Dallas Cowboys before jumping to the World Football League last year, and Jean Fugett, a star receiver for the Cowboys who played out his option.

Fitch wants out of Cleveland

General Manager-Coach Bill Fitch of the NBA Central Division champion Cleveland Cavaliers says he and owner Nick Mileti "run in different worlds" and Mileti "has made it impossible" for him to do his job effectively.

So Fitch has hired two attorneys to help him wiggle out of his three-year contract, which has two years to go.

"Maybe he's afraid he can't do the job (without me)," Fitch said. "He knows damn well he could have to work eight hours at least one day a week to earn his $80,000.

"Now, he has made it impossible for me to do a job effectively. He's hurting the club he says he cares so much about."

Rudolph leads rainy Kemper

Veteran Mason Rudolph shot a six-under-par 66 Thursday and held a one-stroke lead over J. C. Snead when rain halted play for the day in the first round of the $250,000 Kemper Open golf tournament.

A severe thunderstorm moved over the Quail Hollow Country Club course and play was suspended at 3:53 p.m. PGA officials hoped to resume play but decided shortly after 7 p.m. to call it off for the day because of threatening skies.

The 75 golfers who teed off in th afternoon still were on the course when play was stopped. The 78 players in the morning group completed play. First round play will be resumed at 8 a.m. Friday, with the second round starting at 9 a.m.

Cubs tab Wheeling's Newman

Bert Newman, a graduate of Wheeling High School and a star second baseman at Southern Illinois University, joined former Wildcat George Kaage among the long list of baseball players selected during major league baseball's free agent draft.

Newman,if he signs, will have a chance to work his way back to his hometown because the Chicago Cubs made him the 656th player chosen, tabbing him in the 31st round.

Kaage was chosen earlier by the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Smith tinkers with US cagers

U.S. Olympic basketball coach Dean Smith, trying to bolster his squad at center, shifted two forwards to center Thursday in workouts at the University of North Carolina.

Smith, who put his 15 players through a tough, two-hour practice, said he has decided to try Arizona State's Mark Landsberger and North Carolina State's Kenny Carr at center.

In addition, he said forward Walter Davis of North Carolina will be shifted to guard.

"It's true that we have too many forwards and that is where the cut (from the current 15 players to 12 for the Olympic Games) should come," Smith said after the workout. "But I'm not going to say I'll do that.

"We may have a lot of forwards, but that's where a lot of our talent is."

Sox give Barrios 12-5 birthday gift

From Herald Wire Services

MILWAUKEE — White Sox pitcher Francisco Barrios couldn't have had more fun on his birthday.

Barrios turned 23 years old Thursday and his teammates came up with a perfect gift — 12 runs and 14 hits that gave Barrios his first major league win in his first major league start, a 12-5 decision over the Brewers.

The win put the Sox five games over the .500 mark now at 27-22 and gave them the edge in the series, two games to one. Veeck's Wrecks now move on to Cleveland to complete the current road trip with a four-game weekend series.

Buddy Bradford hit a three run homer and added a triple to pace the sox with four RBIs. Jim Spencer also hit a home run for the Sox.

The win was the 18th in the last 24 games for the third place Chicago.

Barrios, now 1-1 on the season, gave up five runs but only allowed seven hits. He struck out four in going the distance. Reliever Jerry Augustine, making his first start of the year for the Brewers, took the loss.

All five runs off Barrios came on home runs. Jim Rosario hit his first major league homer in the third inning, George Scott knocked a two-run home run in the sixth and Don Money hit a two-run shot in the eighth.

Bradford's three-run homer off Augustine gave the Pale Hose a 6-1 lead in the third and he received credit for a fourth RBI while grounding out in the fifth. Bradford was also hit by a pitch in the seventh and tripled and scored in the ninth.

Spencer, who entered the game as a pinch runner in the first, scored the first Sox run in the first and singled and scored in the third. His two-run homer off Pete Broberg in the fifth and single in the eighth made him 3-for-3.

The Sox open the four-game set tonight in Cleveland by sending Ken Brett against Jackie Brown. Tonight is Welcome Home Bill Veeck night, honoring the Sox owner who once owned the Indians.

'Glad I had a chance': Corzine

by BOB GALLAS

Dave Corzine, DePaul University basketball standout who prepped at Hersey High School in Arlington Heights, will have more than just a casual interest come July when the United States Olympic team tries for gold medal in basketball.

Corzine is just back from the Olympic tryout camp. And although he didn't make the 15-man squad, the 6-foot-11 center has returned home just glad to have had the chance to try.

"I guess I just didn't fit in. He (Olympic basketball coach Dean Smith) wanted to go with speed and quickness," said Corzine, who was one of 100 of the top basketball talent in the country to attend the six-day camp in North Carolina.

"I'm used to just standing in the post. They yelled at me the first couple of nights. They wanted me to run and set picks outside," Corzine explained.

Corzine was constantly observed by the 10-man selection committee which picked the team. But he said the constant observation didn't bother him.

"It was a practice type atmosphere, but maybe some of the seniors felt some pressure," Corzine said. "There were a lot of pro scouts there and some of the seniors might have been trying to impress them with the pro draft coming up."

Corzine said the fact that four members of the team are from the University of North Carolina, where Smith coaches, doesn't bother him. "I'm sure he (Smith) knew when they were picked that he'd get a lot of feedback. He really didn't have that much to do with the selections. The selection committee did that."

Smith who was a member of the selection panel, has been criticized for picking four of his own players. Seven men on the team are from Smith's Atlantic Coast Conference, a league that's been considered to be down in talent the past few years.

The schedule at the camp set two-a-day workouts which were primarily scrimmages, Corzine said. "We were divided up into teams that kept changing," he added.

He thinks Scott Lloyd, a center from Arizona State, was the toughest player he went up against while in camp. Lloyd made the squad.

We (DePaul) played against him early last season, but my foot was hurt and I didn't play," he recalled. "He seemed much more impressive in camp."

Corzine added he was pretty surprised that Ricky Green (Michigan guard and prep star from Chicago Hirsch) didn't make the team.

Corzine said he learned of the fact that he didn't make the team by telegram last Saturday, the day after the camp closed.

"It said I was selected as an 'alternate,' but I found out that everybody who didn't make the team got the same telegram.

"That's so you can go around telling your friends, 'I'm an alternate on the Olympic basketball team.'

"But I am glad I had a chance to go," said Corzine, who attended the camp along with DePaul teammate Ron Norwood, who likewise failed to make the squad.

"It was a real good experience getting to play with all those good players. I didn't get much of a chance to watch them, though, since you were always in there playing."

Olympic tickets still available

Tickets are still available for the June 24 area visit by the United States Olympic basketball team.

The Olympic team will play a group of professional all-stars headed by Bob Love of the Chicago Bulls on Thursday June 24, at 8 p.m. in the Prospect High School fieldhouse.

Tickets are $6 each and may be purchased at the Mount Prospect State Bank, 111 S. Busse Ave., Mount Prospect.

Olympic Games come first for top choices in pro basketball draft

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (UPI) — Three members of the U.S. Olympic basketball team picked in the National Basketball Association's first round draft say they will postpone signing pro contracts until after the July 14 games in Montreal.

Mitch Kupchak, Scott May and Adrian Dantley all agreed that the games will come first. Quinn Buckner, another first round selection could not be reached for comment but is expected to remain on the Olympic team.

The four NBA clubs with first round picks on the Olympic squad told the Raleigh News and Observer they were in favor of the players participating in the Olympics and would postpone attempting to sign the players until after the games.

The 15-man squad opened Olympic practice at the University of North Carolina Wednesday under the direction of Olympic coach Dean Smith. Smith, head coach at North Carolina, said during tryouts the U.S. Olympic Committee rules disqualified any player from the team if he signs a pro contract.

"I hope we can win that gold medal," said Dantley, a former Notre Dame standout who was picked by the Buffalo Braves. "A lot of people seem to think that playing there will fatigue you. I think that it will prepare me for rookie camp and the upcoming NBA season."

"Our goal is the gold medal," said Kupchak, a 6-10 center from North Carolina who was drafted by the Washington Bullets.

May, Indiana's player of the year and picked by the Chicago Bulls, said he was "Going to play in the Olympics."

A spokesman for the Milwaukee Bucks which drafted Buckner said, "We really believe in the Olympics. They mean quite a bit to the country and to us. We talked to Quinn and he's really excited about playing in them."

Mt. Prospect Twilight

Joe Moelich and Walt Gaines tied for low net with sizzling 27s and an alternate, John Hoppe, had low gross 37 in Monday twilight action as 12 golfers registered birdies. Hoppe and Gaines had two birds each. The others were Stan Bolit, Roi Hutchings, Pete Peterson, Burt Dahlstrom, Dick Coleman, Ken Gruenes, Bud Ensner, Bob Ryan, Warren Dahlstrom, and Ron Hulka.

Standings: Striking Lanes 25 2/3, Licht's Paint Store 24½, Picket Paint 24½, Mount Prospect Jewelers 24 1/3, John Mufich Buick 24, Annen and Busse Realtors 20, Mount Prospect Federal Savings 19½, Mount Prospect Auto Wash 19½, Jack Hogan's Indoor Golf 18½, Keljik's Carpets 17, FBK Realtors 16, Heinze's Pastry and Coffee Shop 6½.

Old Orchard Scratch

Bob Burrows Chevy jumped past nearly everyone with a seven point sweep of league leading Miles & Miles Insurance in the Old Orchard Scratch League last week.

Burrows was paced by Cal Meyers who shot a one over par 35 on the back nine. Meyers birdied the 11th and 17th holes.

Burrows is one-half point out of first, currently held by Sauganash Corp.

Sauganash took over the league lead with a five point decision over CP Floors.

Howard Kamps led Sauganash with a 38.

Bank of Elk Grove moved out of the cellar, taking six points from Baird & Warner Realty.

Wally Busch led the Bankers with a 39 while B & W's Wally Lasher overcame an eight on the first hole to card an even par 34.

Titliest golf balls were awarded to Raul Casteneda, Ron Furmahn, Wally Lasher and Jim Nolan for being closest to the pin on each of the par threes.

The league is looking for good golfers to serve as alternates this year and be ready for team assignments next year. Interested golfers should contact Marty Kolar at 467-9350.

VFW League

The second division teams of the VFW Golf League took their turn whipping the league leaders and allowed Key, Foy and Snelten Insurance to keep their slim lead.

Fetke Insurance made the biggest climb in the standings, moving from the basement to seventh place with a 20-4 win over Loren's Plumbing.

Snelten Insurance finished the week with 91 points, holding a three point margen over Douglas Savings and five over third place Kolman Plumbing.

Jack Francisco captured low net with a 45-17-28 showing.

Ten birdies were recorded with Earle Strehlow getting two on the second and third, Fred Martin on the fourth, Wendell Pearson and Virgil Rolfs on the 11th, Doc Luzwick on the 12th, Tom Johann on the 14th, Darryl Burkett on the 15th and Harvey Bartholemew and Carl Orlick on the 18th.

South has speed, North has power for star game

by KEITH REINHARD

Keeping the South team off the basepaths will be a major part of the strategy developed by the North at the Third Annual Hal Sprehe Memorial All-Star Baseball Game, scheduled for Sunday at Forest View High School.

Game time is approximately 1 p.m., immediately following introduction ceremonies. The North and South squads have each won one of the two previous all-star contests.

Rosters and starting lineups for the game were released this week and they indicated a South club coached by Rich Symonds has the potential to run, run, run.

Paul Marsillo and Guy Tenuta, the same leadoff double play combination that sparked Rolling Meadows to a second straight Mid-Suburban championship, will be prepared to do their thing again Sunday. They combined for 24 league base thefts.

Hoffman Estates veteran catcher Randy Brown will hit third. He had eight steals. Also in the South lineup are Jim Petran of Forest View with five stolen bases and Mike Crnich of Prospect with six.

The North unit, meanwhile, coached by John Eliasik, is more power-oriented. Buffalo Grove's Steve Chobanian and Hersey's Tom Barnard, the three and four hitters in the lineup, combined for over 80 total bases in conference action this spring and had hefty slugging tempos in the .750 range.

Every school in the MSL is represented by at least one player on one of the two teams. There are also two St. Viator representatives on each of the 24-man units.

The starting pitchers for both sides are to be announced Saturday.

The lineup for the South has Marsillo, co-league batting champion at .472 leading off and playing short. Tenuta at second base (hitting .327) will hit second, Brown (.400) will catch and bat third, Mike Hermanson of St. Viator (.421) will play first base and hit cleanup, Elk Grove's Bob Ray (.321) will be the designated hitter and bat fifth, Petran (.328) will play left and hit sixth, St. Viator's Jim Thompson (.394) will play center field and hit seventh, Terry Zarbock (.381) of Schaumburg will play right and bat eighth and Crnich will hit ninth and play third.

Rounding out the South team are Mustangs Noe Nunez, Mike Bramlett, John Carbery and John Igrasek; Falcons Jim Giblin, Bill Simon, ron Turner and Tom Lunak; Knights Dave Thoma and Tim Davies; Hawks Joe Gajewski and Rich Lindow; Saxon Bob Connell and Conant's Dan Neswold.

Starting for North will be Arlington's Matt Splitt (.351) leading off and playing right, Wheeling's Bob Terreberry (.366) batting second and the designated hitter, Barnard (.472) hitting third and playing first, Chobanian (455) hitting cleanup and playing center, Viator's Mike Dooley (.423) playing second and hitting fifth, Glenn Barry of Wheeling (.327) playing left and batting sixth, Arlington's Don Stebbins (.295) catching and hitting seventh, Fremd's Mike Mertes (.267) playing third and hitting eighth and Bob Fry of Hersey (.196) playing short and hitting ninth.

Arlington grid signup Saturday at Rec Park

The second registration for the Arlington Heights Youth Football program will be Saturday, June 12 at Recreation Park from 8:30 a.m. to 2 p.m.

The program is open to all residents of Arlington Heights if he is neither 15 years old or enrolled in ninth grade on or before Dec. 1 or if he is in fifth grade and 10 years old on or before Dec. 1.

Boys who played last year but have moved out of Arlington Heights are still eligible to play this year.

Included in the registration will be a fund raising project to sell Arlington Heights Youth Football jackets.

The registration fee is $29 for each boy and $22 for each additional boy per family.

For complete information contact Tom Jauch, the chairman of the Arlington Heights Youth Football program, at 830-1900.

CAR CORNER

with George Orth & Roger Nick

Only a relatively small part of an automatic transmission is occupied by the gears. Did you know that most of the space is filled by the versatile torque converter and a system of clutches and brake bands that activate the proper gear radios to provide power to the output shaft? When the transmission selector is set in the drive position pressurized oil courses through a complex series of valves in the value body. These valves open and close automatically, according to the engine's speed and load.

Steve Safranski (Putnam County) — repeat champ in Class A with 23-3¼ . . . didn't even jump on final day . . . hit 23-1¼ in district despite slight muscle pull.

TRIPLE JUMP

Ed Tate (Bloom) — first in state with 49-7½ that ranks fifth in nation . . . hit 49-10¾ indoors . . . sailed 48-7 in district qualifying despite being bothered in final weeks by heel injury.

Alvin Perryman (Danville) — state champ as junior at 49-4¼ and state runnerup this time with 48-6¾ . . . hit 47-7 in district.

Kerry Rice (Springfield Southeast) — third in state with 48-2½ . . . reached out to 49 feet in district qualifying.

Steve Simington (Chicago Mendel Catholic) — fourth in state with 48-8½ . . . reached 47-7¼ in district . . . third in state last spring at 47-4.

Chester Richard (Alton) — fifth in state with 47-6 after hitting 46-7 in district . . . improved his position with better jump at Saturday's finals after qualifying in sixth.

POLE VAULT

Mike McCrindle (Bloom) — fourth year at state . . . winner this time as a senior at 15 feet after taking sixth as soph and third as junior . . . cleared 16-0 outdoors, second in state, and had 16-2 indoors . . . sailed over 15-6 in district.

Don McCulley (Champaign Central) — second in state with 14-3 after clearing 14-6 earlier . . . steady all spring.

Dave Paape (Hoffman Estates) — third in state with 14-3 but had personal best of 14-4 this spring . . . impressive Friday showing at state, then cleared his third place height on pressure-packed final vault.

Bob Burt (Bloomington) — fourth in state at 14 feet but has 14-8 to his credit, a district vault that was second best in Illinois . . .

SHOT PUT

John Powers (Fenwick) — first in state with 62-8 and had throws over 63 feet but fouled . . . skipped basketball to concentrate on weightlifting and form and it paid off in state title . . . first in district with 61-9¼ . . . headed for Michigan on football scholarship.

Eric Kirchner (Chillicothe IVC) — second in state with 58-7½ . . . had 60-7 throw this spring and reached 57-9¾ in district.

McKinley Nach (Evanston) — third in state with 58 feet and had personal best of 58-4.

Greg Gilbaugh (Rockford East) — fifth in state with 57-1½ and had toss of 58-2½ earlier.

Barry Crayton (East St. Louis) — second in state as junior with 60-1¼ and had another throw of 61 feet but his 1976 best was 59-4½ . . . disappointing sixth in Illinois finals 56-7½ but still one of state's best.

DISCUS THROW

Bruce Rolfe (Wheaton North) — accomplished a rare repeat in a very unpredictable event . . . won in 1975 with toss of 167-10 and got off a throw of 177-7 this time . . . hit 167-3 in district.

Pat McCulla (Quincy) — second in state with 174-8 . . . qualified at 170-3 and had 179-1 this spring . . . his 167-10 district toss was second best in state.

Bob Eichen (Alton) — third in state with 171-9 . . . had throw of 181-0 this year.

Jim Chastain (Rockford Harlem) — fourth in state with 170-5 . . . had 171-0 also this spring and hit 165-1 in district . . . qualified downstate at 165-5.

Mike Jawork (Zion-Benton) — fifth in state and third in qualifying . . . hit 167-8 in Charleston and had 169-4 in district which was leader in Illinois.

Did Beamon's leap wreck the long jumping event?

Jim Murray

On Oct. 18, 1968, at the Mexico City Olympics, Bob Beamon of the United States long jumped 29 feet 2½ inches, the most prodigious feat in the history of track and field. He obliterated a world record by nearly two feet—and all but wrecked the sport of lont jum- all but wrecked the sport of long jumping in this country.

He drove the U.S.'s Ralph Boston and others into instant retirement. The defending Olympic champion, Lynn Davies of Great Britain, did not even take his final jumps. "I thought he never would come down," marveled Boston. Beamon's flight was longer and higher than the Wright Brothers.

The altitude of Mexico City was a contributing factor but not the only one. Beamon beat other long jumpers by an incredible yard.

Track and field athletes are the most record-conscious in the whole weave of sport. And, long-jumping went into a long twilight when Beamon came down. No one was interested in a bunch of 26 and 27-foot leaps, even if it meant winning the ribbon. Beamon had posted a 1996 record 28 years ahead of its time.

This had happened before. In 1936 at Berlin, Jesse Owens put the record a foot and a half farther than it had been with his leap of 26-5 5/16 for a world record which would stand for 25 years — with the help of a couple of wars.

But since Beamon's leap, the art of long jumping in this country is in such poor estate that our best long jumper is 28 years old and still cannot find anybody within a foot of him. It's a serious business because, without anybody to push him, Arnie Robinson, with a world's best this year of 27-3½, admits that he looks in practice like a guy who couldn't jump a crack in the sidewalk. "I need the pressure of competition. You know, a pole vaulter or a high jumper can jump at a height. They can give solo performances in their back yards. But without somebody to push me, I can't jump 23 feet in practice."

Where have all the long jumpers gone? Well, to begin with, long jumpers are necessarily also exceptional sprinters. Jesse Owens could have been the greatest long jumper who ever lived — except that he was also the greatest sprinter who ever lived. He had minimal time for technique, because he was running from a long jump pit to a spring lane all his career.

Since his sprint record is more easily attainable than Beamon's long-jump record, it is a more glamorous entry for a gifted young track star and most of them opt for it.

Too, long jumpers are usually skilled at the dollar sports, basketball or football. "We have a tremendous array of sports in this country for an athlete who can run fast or jump far," Robinson says. Thus, the NFL, NBA, and ABA regularly thin the ranks of potential long-jump medalists.

Whatever the reason, Robinson, a teacher at San Diego State, faces a long, ragged runway to the victory stand at Montreal.

"The Europeans make up in technique what they lack in sheer ability. They're into biomechanics. Seventy-five per cent of your long jump is sheer speed, but the other 25 per cent are things like the angle of takeoff, number of steps and trajectory. The kinds of things you can program. I come down the runway two or three seconds faster than any jumper in the world, but the faster you go, the shallower your jump. I may have been the best long jumper in the 70s but to improve you need motivation."

The motivation in the Olympics, of course, is that your medal, if you win, is just as gold as Beamon's. If you win the Modesto Relays' long jump with a 26½-footer, you make the agate type. If you win the Olympic jump, even if it's only with a 21-footer, you get the same headline as Jesse Owens, and the same spot in the history books.

Most Olympians rejoice when they read in Track and Field News where their competition is struggling inches in arrears. Robinson frowns. "There's a triple jumper down in Brazil who has a 58-8," he says with a gleam in his eye. "He probably won't be able to double as a long jumper but I wish he could. With that kind of push, no telling how far we both might jump." In other words, Arnie would like to break Beamon's record 20 years ahead of its time.

Schaumburg High's tennis coach resigns

Schaumburg High School tennis coach Judy Barons has resigned her position and will be replaced by assistant coach Tony Capalbo, the Herald learned Thursday.

Barons will continue to coach the girls tennis team but will relinquish the boys job. She has coached the Schaumburg boys team for two years.

"I said when I first took the job," Barons remarked, "that I would keep it until they found someone who could devote an extended period of time to building a good program.

"We wanted to get someone who was willing to put in 10 years or so."

Capalbo, who coached at Conant High School before coming to Schaumburg, will step in immediately to run the Saxons' summer tennis camp.

Barons, who teaches English at Schaumburg, was not able to run the program because she doesn't have a degree in Physical Education.

"I think the programs for both boys and girls will improve because the coaches can concentrate only on those programs."

Kaage selected by Los Angeles

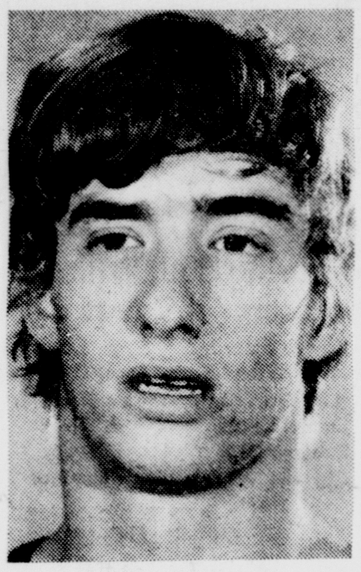
After a night of unsuccessful telephone calls, George Kaage's mother finally caught up with him at work to tell him his lifelong dream had come true.

"George, there's nothing wrong. You've been drafted by the Dodgers," was how the conversation went.

Kaage, former Wheeling High School star who's just wrapped up an outstanding two years playing for Kankakee Junior College was passed over the major league teams out of high school, but he still pursued his dream of becoming a major league ballplayer. Now his dream has a chance of becoming a reality after the Los Angeles selection.



GEORGE KAAGE

"He said he'd given up all hope," said Mrs. Kaage, who learned that her son's telephone was out of order at his Kankakee apartment and finally reached him at work. "He's wanted this since he was nine years old."

Kaage was selected far down in the free agent draft, in the 26th round. He was the 601st players selected, but that didn't kill the joy in the Kaage house very early Thursday morning when they were informed of the selection by phone from a Herald reporter.

Kaage now must decide whether to turn pro or accept one of several scholarship offers that have come in from four-year schools. "I really can't say what he'll do," Mrs. Kaage explained.

Kaage 6-foot-5 first baseman, was recently selected to the National Junior College Athletic Assn. All-America squad.

Mikita hockey school opens in area Monday

Four Northwest suburban youngsters will participate in the third annual Stan Mikita Hockey School for hearing impaired boys that will be conducted next week at the Randhurst Twin Ice Arena.

The four local hockey players are:

James Cammarata of 300 North Eastwood Ave. in Mount Prospect;

John Fredian of 615 West Hackberry Drive in Arlington Heights;

David Graveline of 130 David Drive in Palatine; and, Herbie Muehl of 1912 Prestwick Drive in Palatine.

The third annual Mikita School has attracted nearly 70 youngsters from 18 states, making it the largest of his three schools.

Mikita's fulltime coaching staff includes former Chicago Black Hawk players Lou Angotti, Gene Ubriaco and Elmer "Moose" Vasko plus David Sparks, director of hearing research at the University of Washington in Seattle.

Daily instructional sessions will be held from 8:30 a.m. until 1:30 p.m. next Monday to Friday and are open to the public.

Mikita's clinic will conclude with a 10 a.m. Saturday, June 19, benefit game between the Chicago All-Stars, who are primarily current and former Black Hawks, and the United States Deaf Olympic Hockey Team.

Tax deductible admission at $3 per ticket will be applied to funding the Deaf Olympic team. Tickets are now on sale at Randhurst Twin Ice Arena.

Indiana rains

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI)—Two of the last three Indianapolis 500 mile races were shortened by rain. The 1973 event won by Gordon Johncock was red-flagged by inclement weather, and Bobby Unser took the 1975 race under the same conditions.

Reiser record

The youngest baseball player to win the batting crown in National League history is Pete Reiser. At 22, Reiser hit .343 for Brooklyn in 1941.

Elk Grove holds grid registration Saturday

The Elk Grove Village Athletic will hold a registration for boys' football and girls' cheerleading on Saturday, June 12, from 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m.

Parents may register their boys and girls at two locations, the Elk Grove Bowl in the Park 'N' Shop Center and at the Grove Mall Shopping Center near the Jewel.

All boys and girls in the Elk Grove area ages 8-14 (not in high school) are eligible to participate in a full schedule of home and away football games.

Teams accommodate boys whose skills range from beginner to those with up to five years experience, allowing each boy to play at his own level. All EGVAA football equipment meets or exceeds college level requirements for safety, player protection and playing quality. Comprehensive insurance coverage is included for all boys, girls, parents and spectators participating in the program.

Family registration fees are $25 first boy, $20 second boy, and $15 for each additional boy in a family. Cheerleaders fees are $15 per girl for the senior teams and $10 each girl for the junior teams. Uniforms, equipment and insurance are all included in the registration fees.

Parents whose children are enrolled in the program also receive membership in the Elk Grove Village Athletic Association, and are urged to take an active roll in their childrens' activities. For more information on the programs, please call 430-0304, 437-6591 or 640-6975.

Lions split in baseball

Logan Square opened their American Legion baseball schedule with a 3-2 loss against Barrington.

Lou Citro took the setback as Barrington scored two unearned runs in the seventh inning. Jim Simmerman started the game for Logan Square.

Jim Thompson stole home in the first inning to give the Lions a 1-0 lead and Mike Dooley scored in the third when Pat Rooney reached on an error.

The Lions evened their season at 1-1 Wednesday night by defeating Northbrook, 8-2.

Keith Pecka, who pitched the first four innings, got the win. He was supported by seven Lion hits including a homerun by Mike Hermanson in the first inning that drove in three runs.

SCORE BY INNINGS

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Logan Square | 510 | 002 | 0—8-7-0 |
| Northbrook | 001 | 000 | 1—2-2-2 |

Weber Augustana mat coach

Mike Weber, a 1970 graduate of Arlington High School, has been hired as head wrestling coach at Augustana College in Rock Island, Ill.

Weber replaces Chester Schulz, a long-time Rock Island resident who previously coached at the high school there.

Weber, married and the father of three, is a recent Augustana graduate. He competed at Harper for two years prior to attending school there and lettering with the Viking varsity mat program for two more seasons.

545—Out of Area

VACATION HOME SACRIFICE

Near the Wisconsin Dells, we must sell 10 sites within 200 yds. of lake. Lake rights are included. Approx. 3 hrs. from Chicago. These properties will be sold individually with a shell home of the purchaser's choice at one total package price. We will sell our 2 Bdrm. A-frame shell home and basic ¾ acre site for $9,995. Our 3 bdrm. A-frame and basic ¾ acre site would run $11,995. Ranch home shells and log cabin financing can be arranged. These are not pre-fab or pre-cut homes but are built from the ground up by our professional carpenters. They are beautifully finished on the outside and are studded and ready to complete on the inside. Because we must begin now to order materials and schedule work crews, these 10 properties must be sold immediately. Our representatives will be at the sites this coming weekend. June 12th and 13th. Should 10 parcels not be sold they will return the following weekend, June 19th and 20th. This is an absolute sale. If you've ever wanted to own your own summer home at a price you can afford, this is your opportunity. For further information or directions and reservations, call broker at (312) 654-2282.

Ordinance No. 1426

(An Ordinance Amending Title 1 of the Wheeling Municipal Code)

WHEREAS, the President and Board of Trustees of the Village of Wheeling deem it in the best interests of the citizens of the Village of Wheeling to amend Title 1 of the Wheeling Municipal Code; and

WHEREAS, the President and Board of Trustees are authorized and empowered to so amend Title 1;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT ORDAINED by the President and Board of Trustees of the Village of Wheeling, County of Cook, State of Illinois, as follows:

SECTION A. That Title 1.04.035 of the Wheeling Municipal Code be and hereby is amended as follows:

1.04.035 Penalties for violating code provisions. In all cases where the same offense is made punishable or is created by different clauses or sections of this code the prosecuting officer may elect under which to proceed; but not more than one recovery shall be had against the same person for the same offense; provided that the revocation of a license or permit shall not be considered a recovery or penalty so as to bar any other penalty being enforced.

Whenever in this code a minimum but not maximum fine or penalty is imposed, the court may in its discretion fine the offender any sum exceeding the minimum fine or penalty so fixed but not exceeding five hundred dollars.

Whenever in this code the doing of any act or the omission to do any act constitutes a breach of any section or provision of this code, and there shall be no fine or penalty declared for such breach, any person who shall be convicted of such breach shall be fined not less than two dollars nor more than five hundred dollars for each offense.

Whenever a village ordinance complaint has been issued for a violation of any provision of this code, the officer shall, if in his opinion the violation is of a nature that the condition can be rectified or discontinued, indicate on the violation complaint in the appropriate space, the following schedule of fines:

(1) If paid by mail or in person on or before the tenth of the month following the date of the issuance of the complaint, the fine shall be five dollars.

(2) If paid after final notice date, but before service of a notice to appear, the fine shall be ten dollars.

(3) If paid in court after the notice to appear has been served, the fine shall be fifteen dollars plus the court costs, if any.

SECTION B. The invalidity of any section or provision of this Ordinance hereby adopted shall not invalidate other sections or provisions thereof.

SECTION C. All other ordinances or parts of ordinances of the Village of Wheeling in conflict herewith are hereby repealed.

SECTION D. This Ordinance shall be in full force and effect from and after its passage, approval and publication according to law.

PASSED this 7th day of June, 1976.

AYES: Trustees Cole, Hedlund, Hein, Jackson, Kerr, Monoson.

Dow closes up 6 points in active NYSE trading

NEW YORK (UPI) — Paced by oils and aided by some bargain hunting, prices registered a sizable gain Thursday in moderately active trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones industrial average, a 1.88-point loser Wednesday, gained 6.30 points to 964.39. The closely-watched average has skidded the past several weeks after several attempts at the 1,000 level.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index gained 0.82 to 99.56, the NYSE common stock index rose 0.43 to 53.05 and the average price of an NYSE common share increased by 26 cents.

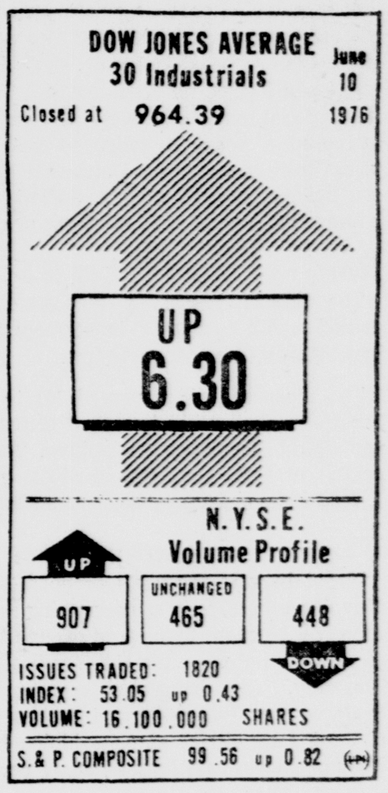
ADVANCES TOPPED declines, 907 to 448, among the 1,820 issues crossing the tape. The 465 unchanged issues reflected considerable investor uncertainty, however.

Volume totaled 16,100,000 shares, up from the 14,560,000 traded Wednesday.

Many investors were encouraged a "de facto" truce in Lebanon appeared to be holding with Arab League approval. Syrian troops ran into heavy resistance in trying to quell the 14-month-old civil war there. Wall Street feared another major Middle East war would produce an inflationary oil embargo on the West.

Also, Alan Greenspan, the Ford administration's chief economist, sparked some buying when he told Congress the economy, stripped of inflation, should grow at a 7 per cent rate this year. He said the recovery would remain strong throughout the year and into next year.

BILLS AND RELATED issues were pacesetters. A number of analysts said the earnings outlook for the industry is good and that some of the stocks were underpriced.



Gulf Oil topped the Big Board actives, up ¼ to 27-1/8 on 236,100 shares. Xerox was the second most active issue, up 1-7/8 to 56-3/8 on 205,800 shares. Walt Disney followed, up 5/8 to 51¼ on 180,200 shares, including a block of 120,000 shares at 50.

Prices closed higher in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange. The average price of an Amex share increased three cents. Volume totaled 2,020,000 shares, compared with 1,790,000 traded Wednesday.

Consumer Price Index advances .8% in May

OTTAWA (UPI) — The Consumer Price Index advanced 0.8 per cent to 148.0 in May contributing to an annual price rise of 8.9 per cent, Statistics Canada said today.

The May-over-April increase marked the first time in four months in which the rise has been more than one-half of 1 per cent.

The food index, after declining for five months, rose to 1.5 per cent between April and May to account for nearly half of the over-all CPI increase.

Higher home ownership charges, together with increased prices for tobacco and alcohol, also were strong factors in the May price increases.

The all-items sector, excluding food, rose 0.6 per cent.

THE GOVERNMENT Statistics Agency said a 12.4 per cent price increase for beef was the largest single contributing factor to the increase in the food index.

Price increases for fresh produce, butter and fluid milk also contributed to the advance.

The increases were partially offset by lower prices for poultry and soft drinks consumed at home.

Increases also were recorded for plane fares, seasonal recreational equipment, barbering and hairdressing services.

Between May 1975, and this May, the price of services increased 12.8 per cent compared to a 6.9 per cent rise for the price of goods.

Cost of housing in May rose 0.6 per cent, clothing rose 0.2 per cent, transportation rose 0.1 per cent and health and personal care costs climbed 0.9 per cent.

The increase in recreation and reading was up 0.6 per cent, while alcohol and tobacco prices shot up 2.8 per cent.

Business briefs

Cost of gasoline rises; regular now up to 61.3c

Average retail gasoline prices jumped to the highest level of the year during the past two weeks, the Chicago Motor Club reported Thursday. In Cook County, the average pump price for regular rose 1.3 cents a gallon to the 61.3-cent mark. The average price for premium fuel increased a penny a gallon to 66.4 cents. Increased prices were reported for Downstate Illinois and Northern Indiana. In Cook County, there is a 16-cent spread between the highest and lowest gas price.

Mortgage rate kept at 9.5 per cent

The Illinois House of Representatives Thursday passed a bill to extend indefinitely the 9.5 per cent interest rate on home mortgages.

The measure, which passed 101 to 40, goes to the Senate. A similar bill is stalled in the Senate Finance and Credit Regulation Committee. The mortgage rate ceiling, or usury limit, would revert to 8 per cent Jan. 1, 1977, if the legislature takes no action.

Winter wheat crop drops 3 per cent

Wheat harvest prospects dropped 3 per cent during May due to freezes in some growing areas, but the 1976 crop will be more than large enough to meet demands for the coming year, the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture said Thursday. The department's crop reporting board Wednesday estimated the winter wheat crop on the basis of June 1 conditions at 1,416 billion bushels, down 43 billion bushels from May 1 and 14 per cent below production a year ago.

19 per cent cut seen in coffee crop

World coffee production in the 1976-1977 export season will drop 19 per cent from the previous year, the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture said Wednesday. A freeze in Brazil is among the reasons cited. Coffee prices continued to advance during the second quarter of the year.

China weighs oil exports

Expanding oil exports from China could cut the power of the Arab oil cartel, two economists said Thursday.

Economists K. C. Yeh and Y. L. Wu, speaking at a Sino-American conference in China, said China has the potential for export expansion, but it is not clear whether officials will move ahead.

New world agriculture unit

United Nations Sec. Gen. Kurt Waldheim Thursday said the creation of a new agricultural development agency is a "highly significant" step toward providing food for the needy. Waldheim spoke at a two-day Rome conference where the International Fund for Agricultural development was created.

New land reclamation agency

A new program to promote reclamation of a strip-mined land was announced Thursday by the U.S. Agriculture Dept. The program, Reclamation of Lands Affected by Mining, was set up to coordinate department activities ranging from land restoration advice to actual restoration work on U.S. National Forest lands.

S&L opens new building

Unity Savings recently opened new offices at the Woodfield Shopping Center, Schaumburg. The company's area offices previously were housed in temporary mall quarters.

The 10,000-square-foot building has drive-up facilities, a gift showroom and other services. The 1805 E. Golf Rd. office is among four Unity facilities. Other locations include Chicago, Niles and Park Forest. The savings and loan association's assets total more than $400 million.

Community leadership session set

The second Community Leadership Training Center summer workshop, "Governmental Fund Accounting," will be offered June 24 and July 1. Both sessions will meet from 7 to 10 p.m. in Harper College's Willow Park Center, Palatine and Milwaukee roads, Wheeling.

The workshop will present the basic concepts of governmental fund accounting and the various types of financial statements related to each fund. Typical accounting entries necessary to maintain fund accounting will be reviewed as well as annual closing procedures.

Instructor for the workshop will be David Griffith, president of David Griffith Associates, a consulting firm specializing in the needs of state and local government. Before organizing his firm, Griffith was a manager in the Chicago office of Peat, Marwick, Mitchell and Co.

The summer workshop is designed for elected and appointed officials of local units of government. Tuition for each workshop is $25 or $90 for the series of four.

Teen class offered in self-improvement

Life for Living, a self-improvement group based in Prospect Heights, will offer summer classes for junior high and high school aged youths beginning June 23.

The classes will be at 3:30 p.m. on Wednesdays and Thursdays for five weeks. A location for the classes has not been set.

The classes are taught by Fred and Joyce McDonald, Prospect Heights residents, for a $25 fee to assist youths in clarifying their goals, attitudes and relationships.

The McDonalds have taught self-improvement classes in connection with area firms and in Ireland. More information is available by calling 255-6524.

31 WORDS

The Pledge of Allegiance is a model of concise English that captures the meaning and spirit of our country in just 31 words.

The words grew out of a meeting of five men — four state superintendents of education and Francis Bellamy, editorial staff member of Youth's Companion. They sought a program to commemorate the 400th anniversary of Columbus Day.

In August of 1892, Bellamy wrote the pledge. It was published in the Youth's Companion, September 8, 1892. It was to become a morning ritual for countless American youngsters.

Unfortunately, it also became the center of a heated controversy that lasted almost 50 years. The family of James B. Upham, who was also connected with the Youth's Companion, claimed that he was the real author of the pledge and went to great lengths to establish that claim.

In 1939, the United States Flag Association appointed a committee to determine "in the interests of historical accuracy and certainty the authorship of the pledge." After weighing all evidence they decided that Mr. Bellamy was unquestionably the author.

Except for three changes, the Pledge stands as originally penned. In 1923, the words "the flag of the United States" were substituted for "my flag"; in 1924 the words "of America" were added. Finally, President Eisenhower, in 1954, added the words "under God".
